GST brought down on 14 COVID relief goods

Council leaves the 5% tax levied on vaccines unchanged

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI

The Goods and Services Tax (GST) Council on Saturday decided to waive the tax levied on two critical drugs against COVID-19 and mucormycosis – tocilizumab and amphotericin B – and reset the tax rate to 5% for 14 major pandemic relief items, till September 30.

Non-BJP-ruled States registered a strong dissent, terming the continued imposition of GST on critical COVID supplies and drugs as "insensitive" and "totally anti-people". They alleged that their proposals for zero-rating or reducing GST rates to 0.1% on critical supplies were ignored by the Union Finance Ministry at what turned out to be another stormy Council meeting.

Mitra's remarks deleted
West Bengal Finance Minister Amit Mitra said the Council's chairperson, Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, allowed his comments to be deleted at the behest of his Uttar Pradesh counterpart, and accused the Ministry of muzzling his voice and cutting off the virtual conference link when he was trying to voice objections.

The GST rate on Remdesivir and anti-coagulants like Heparin has been reduced from 12% to 5%. The Council recommended that the same rate be levied on any other drug that may be recommended by the Health and Family Welfare Ministry and the Department of Pharma for COVID-19 treatment. ## 'Operation Olivia' to the rescue of Olive Ridleys

The Coast Guard helps enforce laws to protect turtles as they arrive to nest in Odisha

DINAKAR PERI
NEW DELHI

Every year, the Indian Coast Guard's "Operation Olivia", initiated in the early 1980s, helps protect Olive Ridley turtles as they congregate along the Odisha coast for breeding and nesting from November to December.

"For optimal results, round-the-clock surveillance is conducted from November till May utilising Coast Guard assets such as fast patrol vessels, air cushion vessels, interceptor craft and Dornier aircraft to enforce laws near the rookeries," a Coast Guard officer said. "From November 2020 to May 2021, the Coast Guard devoted 225 ship days and 388 aircraft hours to protect 3.49 lakh turtles that laid eggs along the Odisha coast."

The Olive Ridley (Lepidochelys olivacea) is listed as vulnerable under the International Union for Conservation of Nature's Red list. All five species of sea turtles found in India are included in Schedule I of the Indian Wildlife Protection Act, 1972, and in the Appendix I of the Convention of International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora which prohibits trade in turtle products by signatory countries. The Orissa Marine Fisheries Act empowers the Coast Guard as one of its enforcement agencies.

"Studies have found three main factors that damage Olive Ridley turtles and their trawlers in the waters adjoining nesting areas; prohibiting the use of gill nets on turtle approaches to the shore; and curtailing turtle poaching.

Nesting habits
The Olive Ridley has one of the most extraordinary nesting habits in the natural world, including mass nesting called arribadas. The 480-km-long Odisha coast has three arribada beaches at Gahirmatha, the mouth of the Devi river, and in Rushikulya, where about 1 lakh nests are found annually.

"Sea turtles generally return to their natal beach, or where they were born, to lay eggs as adults," the Coast Guard officer explained. Mating occurs in the offshore waters of the breeding grounds and females then come ashore to nest, usually several times during a season.

New declassification policy gets nod

Cases like 1962 war, Operation Bluestar will be taken up on case by case basis

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Saturday approved a policy on archiving, declassification, compilation and publication of war and operations histories by the Ministry of Defence (MoD). However, declassification of older wars like the 1962 war is not automatic and will be taken up on a case by case basis by a committee to be constituted under the policy.

"According to the policy, records should ordinarily be declassified in 25 years. Records older than 25 years should be appraised by archival experts and transferred to the National Archives of India once the war/operations histories have been compiled," the Ministry said on Saturday.

Confidential cases
Asked about cases like the highly confidential Henderson Brooks report on the 1962 war with China and the

Rajnath Singh
Operation Bluestar of 1984, a defence official said a committee will take a view on the earlier wars and operations. The compiled history on wars and operations, within five years, will be for internal consumption first, and later the committee may decide to publicly release whole or parts of it, considering the sensitivity of the subject, the official said. "The policy mandates constitution of a committee headed by Joint Secretary, MoD, and comprising representatives of the Services, Ministry of External Affairs, Ministry of Home Affairs, and other organisations and prominent military historians for compilation of war and operations histories."

NEW DELHI

Emails and passwords of hundreds of Union government officials have been exposed to hackers due to the recent data breaches of Air India, Domino's and Bigbasket, the government has warned officials.

The internal communication, accessed by The Hindu, said the compromised emails on government domains such as @nic.in and @gov.in are potential cyber threats as they are being used by "adversaries" to send malicious mails to all government users.

Days after the alert was sent on June 10, several government offices, including Defence Ministry officials, were targeted by a malicious web link sent on WhatsApp and SMS, asking them to update their vaccination status.

The message asked officials to click on <https://covid19india.in> to generate a digital certificate of COVID-19 inoculation.

HEMANI BHANDARI
NEW DELHI

It was mayhem everywhere. Bodies wrapped in white were being brought in – in hands and on wheels. Siren of ambulances is all that was heard the entire day. The only sight day in and day out was that of burning pyres, recalled Hemant Kumar Sharma, priest of Seemapuri cremation ground.

Mr. Kumar (29) – clad in a white kurta pyjama – sat in the courtyard of the cremation ground, his mask below his chin, in the company of another priest. There is one pyre burning on the premises with 26 platforms, and another body is due to come. There are hens roaming around...their clucking is now audible.

"It's relaxed now. There's probably one COVID-19 body coming in once in 3-4 days. We have time to breathe, eat, sleep, drink water," he said.

Looking back, he said he had never imagined that he would have to witness such a sight. He wished never to see it ever again.

New platforms

Walking through the cremation ground, he pointed at an empty space and said they had built nine platforms apart from the 26 allotted platforms. At another space, they had prepared five platforms. Now, what remains of the extra space are huge black spots and a few bricks lying here and there.

Mr. Kumar then walked a few steps and showed an empty field adjacent to the cremation premises.

"This is where children are buried. But when deaths were peaking, we had converted it into a cremation space and built 72 platforms. We had to break a wall to make way for wood," he recalled.

For more than 10 days in April, over 20 workers here, including priests, sanitation workers and helpers, worked for 24 hours a day and cremated bodies at night as well, against the Hindu beliefs for cremation rites.

"People used to leave bodies outside here without even informing us. There have been so many families who used to leave asking us to send the video of cremation on WhatsApp. We used to cremate those bodies at night," he said.

Chant mantras in sleep

Talking about the impact this period had on him, Mr. Kumar said, "During that time, my mother used to forcefully ask me to come home for a few hours of sleep. My family says that I used to chant mantras in my sleep also."

I am able to sleep now, he added. Mr. Kumar, who has a six-month-old daughter, didn't hold her for a month-and-a-half out of fear. Back at home, he used to eat and sleep in a corner, trying to stay away from the other family members as much as possible. "Here we didn't use PPE kits because it used to be so hot. It was impossible to breathe...we used only masks and gloves," he said.

However, they were all a little at ease because the staffers at the crematorium were fully vaccinated. Mr. Kumar said when the vaccination began, they received a call from government officials and were asked to get vaccinated because they were to deal with COVID-19 bodies.

"Sapne main bhi nahi socha tha aisa manzar dekhenge. Dil se rona aata tha. Ek 6 mahine ke bacche ka antim sanskar kiya tha humne. Uske papa itna ro rahe tho. Vo ankhon ke samne se jaata nahin. [Didn't imagine in my dreams that I'll see something like this. We performed last rites of a six-month-old boy who died of COVID-19]. His father was crying inconsolably. I can never forget that]," he said.

Signs of new life

At Punjabi Bagh cremation ground, plants in the premises had died because pyres were set up right next to them when the number of deaths increased.

The plants have now been cut and there's a semblance of life as new leaves have started to appear.

"I had become used to it since last year, so it didn't affect me much," said Pankaj Sharma (40), one of the priests here. But he insisted the situation wasn't as bad here as it was at other cremation grounds. "Yes, people had to wait here as well but not for as much time as in other cremation grounds."

Now, there are only one or two COVID-19 bodies coming daily and most of the ground remains empty.

But for the inexperienced priests and staffers, seeing the sight of innumerable bodies had an impact, unlike for Mr. Sharma.

"There were days when we didn't get time to have meals or even drink water. We would start our day at 6.30 a.m. and as-that our names were not on the list," said a sanitation worker who didn't wish to be named.

"We were around COVID-19 bodies and COVID positive patients. We deserved it," said Deepanshu.

At Lok Nayak Hospital, the area outside the emergency ward now stands deserted and the two white tents installed as waiting area, a few weeks ago, are empty. There are no people waiting outside with oxygen cylinders. No queue of ambulances and no relatives crying and pleading to admit their loved ones.

It's all gone and everyone's breathing a sigh of relief.

A civil defence volunteer, Abhay, on duty outside the hospital, recalled his duty at the mortuary "during those days" and all he saw was bodies being wheeled in. "I don't want to remember it at all."

2041 draft plan envisions Capital as a '24-hour city'

Document lays out steps to promote night-time economy

SHINJINI GHOSH

NEW DELHI

Apart from promoting the concept of a '24-hour city' and fostering night-time economy, the draft Master Plan for Delhi (MPD) - 2041 also proposes to encourage public transporters such as the Delhi Metro Rail Corporation (DMRC) and the Delhi Transport Corporation (DTC) to operate low frequency night-time services along earmarked routes across the national Capital.

In its bid to develop and strengthen economic centres, the plan proposes to foster night-time economy. "Nodes, precincts or circuits shall be identified for continuing work, cultural activity and entertainment at night to attract tourists and locals. This will improve economic yield by extending utilisation of work spaces and safety by promoting a vibrant night life," read the draft plan.

Public transport

The draft MPD-2041 states that one of the primary objectives is to build on the Capital's extensive public and shared transport infrastructure to reduce dependence on private vehicles.

As a part of special services, the draft MPD - 2041 states: "The plan targets night-time economies to promote higher economic productivity as well as increasing availability of vibrant and safe public spaces at night. The DMRC and the DTC will be encouraged to operate low frequency night-time services along earmarked routes or for special events or festivals."

The plan also suggests fare rationalisation to improve utilisation of public transport for short and medium distances, frequent intra-city trips and increased ridership in high-density areas.

Congestion charges

To disincentivise private transport and increase reliance on public or shared modes of transport, the draft plan also proposes congestion pricing and restricting availability of public parking in markets, cultural hubs and work centres.

"Road-owning agencies in consultation with traffic police shall notify specific areas in the city as congestion pricing zones. Parking charges to be used as a tool for disincentivising private transport usage. Dynamic pricing for peak and off-peak periods, on and off-street parking to be utilised to decongest areas with high vehicular footfall," the plan reads.

According to the draft MPD-2041, concerned agencies will also be required to identify specific areas with heavy footfall such as tourist hotspots and markets as "pedestrian only" zones. "Tactical urbanism measures to convert streets into fully pedestrian zones for specific time durations to be encouraged, so that overall traffic flow is not hampered," the draft plan stated.

The draft plan was recently put in the public domain by the Delhi Development Authority and stakeholders were invited to put forth objections and suggestions.

Over 4.5 lakh have received ration: Delhi govt.

Scheme is a walk-in process and does not require beneficiaries to pre-register

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

More than 4.5 lakh residents have been provided free ration by the Delhi government so far and efforts are under way to iron out issues related to the supply of ration at a few sites over the last few days.

According to the Delhi government, as much as 5,000 MT of dry ration has been provided at centres in the form of combined entitlement consisting of 5 kg of foodgrains, including 4 kg of wheat and 1 kg of rice, per beneficiary so far.

The Delhi government is distributing dry ration at such sites, which include 280 schools, and 5,000 MT will become available at such centres within a week.

The distribution is carried out by the staffers of the Directorate of Education, municipal corporations and other departments in coordination with the area District Magistrate between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on all working days except gazetted holidays and Sundays.

The scheme does not involve the beneficiaries to do any pre-registration and is a walk-in process on the basis of beneficiary details such as name, parentage, mobile number, Aadhaar which are utilised to generate atoken number via SMS.

According to the government, those in need of dry ration, who do not possess ration cards, are eligible to receive relief under the initiative.

Helped many

Amrita, a resident of Khichdiupur village said, "A lot of people have lost their jobs, and are finding it difficult to feed their families being the sole breadwinners. The scheme has aided such people and many others who were facing adversities during this pandemic."

Delhi Food and Civil Supplies Minister Imran Hussain said, "A large number of people turned up at several centres in excess of what was expected. But people should not be concerned. We have placed orders with the FCI for more foodgrains, which will arrive soon."

Mr. Hussain added that the government had taken note of all kinds of grievances reported and sought to issue an assurance that the process will be further streamlined in the coming days.

BJP attacks AAP govt. over ration scheme

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Delhi BJP on Saturday staged a demonstration over the Delhi government's alleged failure to implement the 'one nation one ration card' scheme.

The protest was staged at the Shahdara chowk taxi stand and led by Delhi BJP president Adesh Gupta. North-East Delhi MP Manoj Tiwari, Leader of Opposition Ramvir Singh Bidhuri, State general secretary Harsh Malhotra and MLA Jitender Mahajan also participated in the agitation.

"When 34 States and Union Territories have already started this scheme, what is Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal's compulsion not to do so in Delhi? The Delhi government is in the grips of the ration mafia and hence wants to start 'Ghar Ghar Ration Scheme'. It is a scam and not a scheme," said Mr. Gupta.

"Mr. Kejriwal wants to distribute ration under the PM Gareeb Kalyan Yojna as his own scheme, which smacks of corruption. When this ration reaches the needy and poor it will include cost of packaging and delivery, making it costlier," Mr. Bidhuri claimed.

Mr. Tiwari alleged that the Delhi government's decision to deprive residents of the Central government's ration benefits by not implementing the 'one nation one ration card' scheme was "cheap politics".

Major fire breaks out at Lajpat Nagar Central Market

33 fire tenders were pressed into service

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A major fire broke out at Lajpat Nagar's Central Market on Saturday. No injuries were reported, the police said, adding that a case has been registered.

Delhi Fire Services chief Atul Garg said that a call was received at 10.30 a.m. regarding a fire in a showroom after which 33 fire tenders were pressed into service in the next four hours till the fire was doused.

Garg said.

The Fire department said that the blaze first started from four showrooms and later spread to the fifth shop.

Mr. Garg said that the cause of fire is yet to be ascertained. He also added that it was due to the firemen and timely response that the blaze didn't spread to residential areas behind the showrooms. "There were 100 fire-fighters on the spot," he said.

The police said that senior officers from the force and fire department reached the spot and BSES and IGL were also asked to cut supply immediately. "The crime team and forensic team were also called to inspect the spot. A case under Section 285 [for negligent act endangering human life] of the Indian Penal Code has been registered and investigation will be done accordingly," said a senior officer.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal tweeted: "I am constantly monitoring the situation and in constant touch with the fire department officials".

It includes ex gratia of ₹1 lakh, free education and pension

MOHAMMED IQBAL
JAIPUR

The Rajasthan government on Saturday announced a financial relief package for the children who lost their parents to the COVID-19 infection and the women whose husband died of the disease during the pandemic. The orphans and widows will get an ex gratia of ₹1 lakh each, followed by a financial assistance every month.

As part of the Chief Minister's Corona Baal Kalyan Yojana, the children who lost their parents will get ₹2,500 a month till they attain 18 years of age. The orphans will be provided an assistance of ₹5 lakh on the completion of 18 years as well as free senior secondary education and other benefits under the scheme.

Amount for each child

The women whose husband succumbed to the infection will be given an ex gratia of ₹1 lakh and a pension of ₹5,000 a month, irrespective of their age and financial status. They will also get ₹1,000 a month for raising their children and ₹2,000 per year for their school books and uniform. The amount will be calculated for each child separately.

Trust party cadre, says Mayawati

BSP chief's statement comes after sacking 2 senior leaders

OMAR RASHID
LUCKNOW

Bahujan Samaj Party chief Mayawati on Saturday asked her supporters and workers to trust her party cadres, but not party leaders as she said some of them did not hesitate before hurting the interests of the party for selfish gains and often got sold out.

Ms. Mayawati's warning, at a meeting held here in preparation for the 2022 Uttar Pradesh Assembly polls, comes days after she sacked two senior party MLAs Ram Achal Rajbhar and Lalji Verma on charges of indiscipline. Members of the OBC community, the two leaders were some of the few remaining fragments of the BSP's old-guard, still associated with the party in the post-Kanshiram era.

Following their expulsion, the leaders had hinted that a dispute with a BSP

'Corona mata' temple built, demolished

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
PRATAPGARH (U.P.)

The residents at Juhi Shukulpur village here built a 'corona mata' temple, seeking divine grace to stay clear of the infection. However, the temple built on June 7 was demolished on Friday night.

The villagers alleged that it was demolished by the police, which denied the charge, saying it was constructed on a disputed site and one of the parties involved in the dispute razed it. The villagers said the temple was constructed five days ago with donations from local residents.

'Sisodia's accusation on Punjab school education atrocious'

Amarinder says AAP leadership is obsessed with electoral politics

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
CHANDIGARH/NEW DELHI

Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh on Saturday described as "atrocious" the Aam Aadmi Party's accusation that he has a "secret" friendship with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

The Chief Minister was reacting to AAP leader and Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia's statement after Punjab was ranked number one in the Performance Grading Index 2019-2020 for school education by the Centre.

In a hard-hitting reply to the allegation, Capt. Singh said the AAP leadership is so "obsessed" with electoral politics that it saw poll conspiracies even in something as basic as school education.

The fact is that AAP, which "failed" to make a dent in Punjab's political arena over the past over four years, can see the rout which it is facing in the 2022 Assembly elections, he said in a statement.

"Come to Punjab and I will show you around our schools," Capt. Singh said, adding that the revamp of the State's schools was an exercise undertaken by his government as top priority and the ranking released by the Union Education Minister recently reflected the success of those efforts.

Amarinder Singh •

Jugalbandi' invite

"If you are really interested in improving the education system of Delhi, may be you should do a 'jugalbandi' with me and I will teach you how to manage things better," the Chief Minister replied to Mr. Sisodia's charge.

Punjab Education Minister Vijay Inder Singla also hit out at his Delhi counterpart saying: "The desperation of Manish Sisodia was quite visible and understandable as paid clamour about the rosy picture of Delhi schools in media by the AAP government had comprehensively been exposed. While Punjab got the top rank, Delhi has not been placed in top five....It has been placed on sixth position."

Mr. Singla said the teachers and other staff of the Education department have worked hard to bring the State on the top position. "Punjab has emerged as a leading State in rejuvenating school education by being a pioneer in bringing in infrastructural development, qualitative improvement and complying with RTE norms in government schools," he added.

Mr. Sisodia on Saturday raised strong questions against the report released by the Central government. "Crediting Punjab government with the best government schools in the country at a time when the State has seen the closure of more than 800 schools and several schools found to be functioning as alcohol factories, is a farce. It is crystal clear that Captain Singh has the blessings of Modiji," he said.

BJP flays AAP
Reacting to Mr. Sisodia's allegations, the BJP said that the problem with the AAP leadership is that they are Delhi's local leaders but wish to speak on every State's politics, including that of Punjab, whose people have repeatedly rejected the party in every election after 2017.

"When a Central government report favours Delhi government, they claim credit for their work. Why then they try to discredit the Centre's report which goes against them? Why did the Delhi government during the last six years push out 15 lakh weak students from Class IX and XI, forcing them to opt for NOIS schooling instead of helping them improve," BJP spokesperson Harish Khurana asked.

Police warn against fake news on Virbhadrappa's health

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
SHIMLA

The Himachal Pradesh Police on Saturday warned people against spreading rumours regarding former Chief Minister Virbhadrappa Singh's health on social media.

The move came a day after former Minister and Solan BJP leader Mohinder Nath Sofat and some others posted on Facebook regarding Mr. Virbhadrappa's 'death', just hours after the ex-CM tested positive for COVID-19 and was admitted to the Indira Gandhi Medical College Hospital here for treatment.

Hospital Senior Medical Superintendent Janak Raj told PTI that his condition is stable. The former CM on his Facebook account said he is healthy and being looked after by the doctors.

After realising his mistake, Mr. Sofat deleted his post and expressed regret for it.

The police said strict legal action will be taken against those spreading such rumours. "These acts are in blatant violation of the Disaster Management and Information Technology Acts. The police advise such elements to stop it."

Take corrective steps in housing scheme'

Centre pulls up Odisha after irregularities were found in PMAY-G implementation

SATYASUNDAR BARIK
BHUBANESWAR

After coming across large scale irregularities in the implementation of the Prime Minister Awas Yojana - Gramin in Odisha, the Centre has asked the State government to take corrective measures.

A Central team led by Gaya Prasad, Deputy Director General of Department of Rural Development, had visited the State on February 9 and 10 to conduct an inquiry after a complaint from former Union Tribal Affairs Minister and Sundargarh MP Jual Oram.

"The Central team observed several cases of irregularities relating to absence of PMAY-G logo on houses, lack of quality construction and houses being shown as completed on AwaasSoft, but found incomplete during inspection," Union Rural Development Minister Narendra Singh Tomar wrote to Mr. Oram.

Recover funds'

Some of the prominent irregularities flagged by the team include allotment of PMAY-G houses to both father and son and construction of PMAY-G houses on government land.

The Rural Development

Department had directed the State Chief Secretary to recover funds from ineligible beneficiaries of the flagship housing scheme.

At one place, beneficiaries were found constructing houses on government land.

"The State government may consider regularising allotment of land to beneficiaries and allow them to proceed. If it is not agreeable to the State government, then the funds released to them should be recovered," the team recommended.

The department also asked the State government to take stern action against people involved in irregularities and file police cases against erring officials.

The quality of construction noticed during inspections is very poor. The State is requested to take measures to improve the quality of the houses that have been inspected during inquiry and bring them to liveable condition," Nagendra Nath Sinha, Rural Development Secretary, said in a letter to Odisha CS.

The State must improve the system of quality monitoring and administrative supervision to bring significant improvements in the quality of houses under construction and those inspected, Mr. Sinha said.

Odisha's daily cases drop below 5,000

47 deaths were reported, taking the State's toll to 3,257

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
BHUBANESWAR

Odisha reported less than 5,000 daily COVID-19 cases for the first time in 53 days, with the State reporting 4,852 cases on June 12.

The State last reported less than 5,000 cases at 4,851 on April 21. Odisha's total case load stands at 8,47,313. Its active cases stand at 62,515, which had once crossed the one lakh mark.

Highest number of cases – 649 – were reported from Khordha district, followed by 500 in Cuttack. Jajpur and Balasore are two other districts where more than 300 new cases were found.

The highest daily spike of 12,852 was reported on May 23.

Forty-seven persons were reported dead in the last 24 hours taking the total death toll to 3,257, the highest ever single-day death toll. As death audits have picked up at the district level, the number of deaths has been gradually rising.

Out of 30 districts in Odisha, nine currently have more than 2,500 active cases, which put them in the red category. Another nine districts have active cases between 1,000 and 1,500, for which they have been marked yellow. The remaining 12 districts are green as the total active cases are under 1,000.

Since the beginning of June, the number of patients recovering daily has exceeded the number of fresh cases.

Let her face law here: IS recruit's mother

Nimisha's mother, who has been petitioning leaders for her extradition, is shocked at Centre's stance

SARATH BABU GEORGE
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The Centre's disinclination to permit the return of four Kerala women who had joined the Islamic State in Khorasan Province (ISKP), has shattered the confidence of Bindu Sampath, the mother of Nimisha, alias Fathima Isa, one of those languishing in an Afghanistan prison.

Nevertheless, the Thiruvananthapuram native has resolved to continue her five-year-long battle to bring her daughter and granddaughter to India.

Nimisha is said to have surrendered after her husband was killed in an attack in Afghanistan.

"How can the government abandon us at a time of crisis? We never expected them to break our trust when my daughter could have been brought to her motherland after so many years," Ms. Sampath asks from her home at Attukal, near Thiruvananthapuram.

Appeals in vain

The news reported by The Hindu came as a blow for Ms. Sampath who has been repeatedly petitioning leaders, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Home Minister Amit Shah and External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar.

Nimisha (Fathima)

"I have been knocking on all doors in New Delhi for many years. Sadly, none of our leaders has responded to my pleas. My son, an Army Major, and I have always served the country. Ironically, the Afghanistan authorities had responded to mail seeking details of her well-being," Ms. Sampath, a trustee of the Attukal Bhagavathy Temple, says.

She urged the Centre to extradite Nimisha and her daughter to the country and face trial for the crimes she has committed.

"I have full faith in our rule of law and the justice system. I have no qualms in letting my daughter face punishment for her mistakes. We only hope that it happens in our country and not in a foreign land."

Ms. Sampath says those who had "brainwashed" her daughter walk scot-free, despite her seeking action against them.

"Five people, including Nimisha, who studied together in a private dental college in Kasaragod had left the country to join the extremist organisation. Besides, my daughter had revealed her room-mate's role in convincing her to convert to Islam. No agency has bothered to investigate their roles," she alleges.

Two FIRs against Kannada actor Chetan

His posts criticised 'Brahminism'

STAFF REPORTER
BENGALURU

Chetan Kumar

The city police have registered two FIRs against Kannada actor Chetan Kumar for allegedly "hurting religious beliefs" and "imputations prejudicial to national integration", for his recent remarks on Brahminism.

The two cases have been booked based on complaints by Sachidananda Murthy, chairman, Brahmin Development Board, and Vira Yuva Vedike, a community organisation. The complaints were registered with the Ulsoor Gate and Basavangudi police stations, respectively. In both FIRs, the police have booked the actor under Sections 153B and 29A of Indian Penal Code.

Mr. Kumar had recently made a series of social media posts critical of Brahminism, arguing that it is negation of the spirit of liberty, equality and fraternity.

The controversy began with Kannada actor Upendra posting a video on social media and Mr. Kumar's response to it.

In the video, Mr. Upendra appealed to people to not talk of caste as it would only perpetuate it further. Mr. Kumar responded with another video in which he denounced Brahminism as the root of caste inequality in India. In the same video, he clarified that he was not against Brahmins as a community but against "Brahminism", which he said had crept into all communities and even other religions.

Appeal for CBI probe into rosewood felling in Kerala

'Given the complicity of govt. officials, SIT inquiry farcical'

E.M. MANOJ
KALPETTA

While the illegal felling of centuries-old rosewood trees in Wayanad roils the Kerala Assembly, environmental organisations in the district have sought an investigation by the Vigilance wing of the police or the CBI under the supervision of the High Court. The State government has set up a Special Investigation Team to probe the incident.

The massive felling of ancient rosewood trees in Wayanad by misinterpreting a government order by the timber lobby, with the alleged support of a group of top brass at the Secretariat and the Forest Department, is not an isolated incident," said N. Badusha, president, Wayanad Prakruthi Samarakshana Samiti, in a memorandum submitted to Union Environment Minister Pra-sued by the Revenue Secretary on October 24, 2020, for felling rosewood trees on revenue land assigned for farmers was illegal, said Mr. Badusha. The silence of the senior officials in the Forest Department, despite getting a copy of the order the very next day, was inexplicable, he added. The District Public Prosecutor had advised the Wayanad District Collector and South Wayanad Divisional Forest Officer on January 12 that the felling was illegal. However, no steps were taken to prevent the loot, said Mr. Badusha.

Since the involvement of officials of the Revenue and Forest departments and top leaders of political parties was suspected, an investigation by lower rank officials would make the probe farcical, he added.

The government order is Illegally felled rosewood trees in Wayanad.

kash Javadekar, Minister of State for External Affairs V. Muraleedharan and Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan.

Though the tree felling was stopped later, the accused, including Anto Augustine, Roji Augustine, and Josekutty Augustine, were yet to be arrested. Instead, officials filed a police complaint against 68 farmers three days ago, when the issue came to light, he said.

"Maharashtra is pursuing leads of investment proposals worth over ₹40,000 crore but we are confident that half of these proposals would fructify into concrete MoUs," Mr. Anbalagan said.

Powai lake overflows due to heavy rains

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

MUMBAI

With heavy rains lashing Mumbai, Powai lake started overflowing on Saturday afternoon, an official from the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) said. Water from the lake, which has a capacity of 545 crore litres, is used for industrial purposes and it flows into Mithi river. The lake had last overflowed on July 5, 2020.

When the lake is full, the water area is around 2.23 sq km, while the catchment area is 6.61 sq km. Mumbai has been receiving heavy rainfall and the India Meteorological Department (IMD) has issued a red alert for the city on Sunday and an orange alert for Monday.

The BMC issued a "high alert" to all agencies considering "very heavy rainfall" in the next two days. Seven reservoirs – Bhatsa, Upper Vaitarna, Middle Vaitarna, Tansa, Modak Sagar, Vihar, and Tulsi – supply 385 crore litres of water to the city.

GST brought down on 14 COVID relief goods

For oxygen concentrators, medical grade oxygen and related devices such as ventilators, BiPAP machines, the GST rate has also been brought down to 5% from 12%. The same reduction has been approved in the levies on COVID-testing kits and pulse oximeters.

The 5% rate will apply to personal imports of oxygen concentrators as well as pulse oximeters, while the 18% GST payable on hand sanitizers has been reduced to 5%.

Revenue Secretary Tarun Bajaj said the tax rate changes, to be notified over Sunday and Monday, were aimed at providing some succour to the people amid the pandemic and were not driven by revenue considerations. "When it (the GST on vaccines) was discussed, it was mentioned that the Centre is buying 75% of the vaccines and will remit the GST on it and the revenue on that will be shared 70% with the States," Mr. Bajaj said, explaining that this will have no tax implications for people as they will receive the vaccine for free.

The rates will remain effective till September 30, but could be extended further based on later assessments.

Breach exposes govt. officials' data to hackers

It then redirected them to a page "@gov.in" that resembles the government website mygov.in, and asked for the official e-mail and password.

According to Rajshekhar Rajaharia, cyber researcher, the website was hosted in Pakistan in June. "The page mentioned @nic.in email IDs to make the official believe it is a government page. The purpose seemed to be getting the e-mails and passwords of only government officials and get unauthorised access to government systems, the page does not accept any other domain such as gmail.com," he said.

Air India informed passengers on May 15 that its passenger service system, provided by multi-national IT company SITA, was subjected to a sophisticated cyberattack in the last week of February which affected around 45 lakh "data subjects" in the world registered between August 26, 2011 and February 3, 2021. Government officials are frequent Air India flyers.

The alert sent to officials said, "It is intimated that recent data breaches of Air India and other companies like Domino's, Big Basket etc. have resulted in exposure of e-mail ID and password of many users, which includes lots of government email IDs as well. All such compromised gov. domain emails are potential cyber threats as they are being used by the adversaries to send out malicious mails to all gov. email users. It may please be noted that largely these are name based email IDs which are available with the malicious actors." It added that the malicious actors try to attack government officials through various means such as phishing where attackers send e-mails to officials and make them click on such attachment or web-link and provide permission.

"Either their systems will get infected/compromised or e-mail credentials will be captured by C&C (command and control) server under control of adversaries... Emails coming from any such random user of .gov domain, on any subject line, asking to click on a link or download an attachment are to be considered as malicious and to be ignored and to be deleted. Users are advised to change the password of their e-mail ID which is registered with Air-India, Dominos etc.," the alert mentioned.

An official said while such phishing attempts were common, in the past one year it had intensified.

New declassification policy gets nod

The History Division will be responsible for coordination with various departments while compiling, seeking approval and publishing of war and operations histories. The policy also sets clear timelines with regard to compilation and publication of war and operations histories, the Ministry said, adding that the committee should be formed within two years of completion of war and operations. Thereafter, collection of records and compilation should be completed in three years and disseminated to all concerned.

"The Trinamool Congress won the Assembly elections with a huge mandate and Mamata Banerjee has been elected Chief Minister. Elections at Bhawanipur are a foregone conclusion. Bhawanipur has been our seat and I do not see any rationale behind putting candidate against the Chief Minister," Mr. Chowdhury said.

As part of an electoral understanding with the Left, the Congress had fielded candidates in the Bhawanipur seat in the 2016 and 2021 polls. In 2021, it fielded Md. Shabdar Khan. He secured 5,211 votes. The electoral experiment of the Samyukta Morcha, where the Left and the Congress tied up with the Indian Secular Front, failed miserably in the 2021 poll.

While Trinamool secured a massive victory, winning 213 seats, Ms. Banerjee lost the Nandigram seat. Bhawanipur MLA Sobhandeb Chatopadhyay resigned a few weeks ago paving the way for the Chief Minister to contest. A section of the Congress leadership in Delhi has always backed Ms. Banerjee, and with Mr. Chowdhury, who is among her most vocal critics, taking a soft stand, questions are being raised on the future of the Left-Congress alliance.

Several CPI(M) leaders were of the opinion that if the alliance did not field a candidate, it would send a wrong message to the supporters. "There is no question of backing out from the fight. We cannot allow it to be Trinamool-BJP contest," senior CPI(M) leader Asok Bhattacharya said.

"Victory has many parents and defeat is an orphan. One can come up with various reasons for our defeat, an alliance with Congress, the setting up of Samyukta Morcha," CPI(M) leader Rabin Deb said. He added that the Left parties were not agreeable to the idea of not fielding a candidate against Ms. Banerjee.

Two policemen among four killed in militant strike in J&K

Lashkar behind attack in Sopore, says IGP; regional parties call for end to violence

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
SRINAGAR

Two civilians and as many policemen were killed in a militant attack in Baramulla in north Kashmir on Saturday.

The incident took place around noon in the main market area in Sopore town when unidentified militants fired indiscriminately upon a police party. "The policemen were performing duties to enforce COVID-19 SOPs (standard operating protocol) at the time of the attack," Inspector-General of Police Vijay Kumar said.

Four policemen and four civilians sustained bullet injuries. "Two policemen and two civilians succumbed to their injuries," Mr. Kumar said. He said Lashkar-e-Taiba militants were behind the attack. The deceased policemen were identified as constables Showkat Ahmad and Waseem Ahmad. The civilians were identified as Manzoor Ahmad Shalla and Bashir Ahmad, both residents of Sopore.

said a team of policemen was investigating all the circumstances of the crime.

The regional parties in Jammu & Kashmir, while condemning the attack, unanimously said that "dialogue and not gun is the solution to any problem".

"The solution of Kashmir is not a gun. Neither through guns of New Delhi nor the guns taken up by local youths here. Such attacks only defame Kashmir as a solution lies only in dialogue," PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti said.

In a joint statement, National Conference president Farooq Abdullah and vice-president Omar Abdullah, said, "We mince no words in our condemnation of the outrageous bloodshed. Violence in all its forms and manifestations constitutes the most serious threat to the dignity of human life and universal peace."

CPI(M) leader Mohammad Yousef Tarigami said violence in any form was not in the interest of the people of Jammu & Kashmir. "Violence and killings can never be a solution to any problem. Violence must come to an immediate end," he said.

MUMBAI

The Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) on Saturday clarified that it has not given any responsibility to poll analyst Prashant Kishor within the party but the party was working on setting up a national front of anti-BJP parties.

Sources within the party have identified over 400 Lok Sabha seats where regional players could play an important role against the BJP if a front of these parties is set up.

"Prashant Kishor is a political strategist. He looks at the politics from different point of view. Our president has already discussed the need to unite all Opposition parties. He wanted to go to

Mehul Choksi denied bail by Dominica High Court

Fugitive diamantaire a flight risk, it says

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI

The Dominica High Court has denied bail to fugitive diamantaire Mehul Choksi in the case of illegal entry into the island country after his mysterious disappearance from neighbouring Antigua and Barbuda, where he has been staying as a citizen since 2018 after fleeing from India, local Caribbean media reported.

The court on Friday gave the ruling by concluding that Mr. Choksi was a "flight risk", did not have any ties with Dominica, and the court could not impose any conditions which would stop him from leaving the country, news outlet AntiguaNewsroom said.

Mr. Choksi had approached the High Court after the magistrate rejected his bail petition. The 62-year-old diamantaire, who has an Interpol Red Notice against him, had mysteriously gone missing on May 23 from Antigua and Barbuda. He was detained in Dominica for illegal entry after a possible romantic escapade with his rumoured girlfriend. Mr. Choksi's lawyers had filed a habeas corpus petition calling his arrest illegal and alleging that he was abducted, tortured and handed over to Dominica authority to deny him rights available to him in Antigua and Barbuda as a citizen.

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) and the External Affairs Ministry have sought to implead in the habeas corpus petition by filing two affidavits in the Dominica High Court, officials said here.

The agency would focus on establishing criminal culpability of Mr. Choksi, fugitive status, pending warrants against him, Red Notice and chargesheets, while the External Affairs Ministry would argue that Mr. Choksi continued to be an Indian citizen, they said.

IN BRIEF

Swami Shivamayananda passes away

KOLKATA
Swami Shivamayananda, vice-president of Ramakrishna Math and Mission, died at a city hospital on Friday night due to COVID-19 related complications. He was 86. Condoling the death, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said, "Swami Shivamayanandaji Maharaj was actively involved in a wide range of community service initiatives focused on social empowerment. His contributions to the worlds of culture and spirituality will always be remembered."

Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee said his death had created a void in the spiritual world.

Arunachal court grants bail to Punjab YouTuber

A court in Itanagar, Arunachal Pradesh, on Friday granted bail to Punjab-based YouTuber Parbat Singh, who was arrested on May 27 for racial bars against Congress MLA Ninong Ering and people of the northeastern State. The court of the chief judicial magistrate allowed Mr. Singh's plea for bail on the execution of a personal bond for ₹10,000. The court said him not to leave the country and not interfere with the investigation process.

Sudha Bharadwaj moves HC for default bail

MUMBAI
Trade unionist and lawyer Sudha Bharadwaj, accused in the Bhima Koregaon case, moved the Bombay High Court on Saturday seeking default bail. Her plea said the Pune sessions court judge was not authorised to take cognisance of the supplementary charge sheet against her and the other accused. "It was not the designated special court under the National Investigation Agency Act, which has exclusive jurisdiction to try scheduled offences like the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act, and therefore, not the competent court," the petition said. The matter is expected to be heard on June 14.

Visva-Bharati in news for wrong reasons

Faculty member files FIR against V-C Bidyut Chakrabarty for 'humiliating' teachers

BISHWANATH GHOSH
KOLKATA

For the Rabindranath Tagore-founded Visva-Bharati, 2021 was meant to be a year of celebrations, marking 100 years of the university, but it stands overshadowed by COVID-19 and constant clashes between the Vice-Chancellor and the staff.

On Friday evening, Manas Maity, a Professor of Physics, filed an FIR at the Santiniketan police station against Vice-Chancellor Prof. Bidyut Chakrabarty for humiliating teachers during an online meeting on June 8.

While it is highly unlikely that anything of significance is going to come of the complaint, the FIR is an indication how the university is marking its centenary.

"I guess something must be happening [to mark the centenary] but most of us have no idea about it," said a teacher who has been employed with Visva-Bharati for over two decades now.

Ever since Prof. Chakrabarty took charge in November 2018, the university has been in news for all the wrong reasons: a gag order on staff, several new dos and don'ts imposed on teachers of an institution that has been in existence for a century, constant issuing of show-cause notices seeking to discipline employees, eviction of "erring" students from hostels, construction of high walls around the campus, and conflict with the local population.

Value landmarks
"As humans we tend to live through landmarks like birth anniversaries, a decade, or a centenary. Our natural tendency is to value these landmarks as course-correction moments. Visva-Bharati has completed 100 years, one would justifiably wish this would be a year of introspection, but the institution seems to be hurtling along the path of all the ills that have befallen it under the present dispensation,"

Rajasthan gives subsidies to agri. power consumers

It will lead to a financial burden of ₹450 cr. annually on the State government

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
JAIPUR

In a major relief to the agricultural power consumers, the Congress government in Rajasthan has announced new subsidies under the Chief Minister's Kisan Mitra Urja Yojana during the CO-VID-19 pandemic. The metered consumers will get a subsidy of ₹1,000 on their bills every month.

The new subsidies will lead to a financial burden of ₹450 crore annually on the State government, according to the official sources here.

The total subsidies for a farmer will not exceed ₹2,000 in a year. Those consuming less electricity will be paid the amount of difference through deposit in their bank accounts.

The sources said the new agricultural electricity connections would be released within 90 days after the deposit of demand charges to facilitate the sowing of kharif crops on time. The tubewells will also get electricity connections within 15 days for ensuring adequate supply of water.

SAD, BSP to jointly contest Punjab polls

Alliance will last beyond next year's election, says Badal

VIKAS VASUDEVA
CHANDIGARH

As the battle for the upcoming Assembly election in Punjab gains momentum, the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) and the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) joined hands on Saturday to contest the polls due in the State in early 2022.

SAD president Sukhbir Singh Badal and BSP national general secretary Satish Chandra Mishra made an announcement in this regard here.

"Under the seat-sharing arrangement, the SAD will contest 97 seats and the BSP 20 – eight seats in the Doaba region, seven in Malwa and five in Majha region of the State," Mr. Badal said here at a press conference. There are a total of 117 Assembly constituencies in Punjab.

Mr. Badal said the alliance was not a temporary one and would remain intact as both parties will contest not just the upcoming Assembly poll but other elections together as well. "Both the SAD and the BSP have the same ideology and had always worked for the welfare of farmers, poor and farm labourers," he added.

Hitting out at the ruling Congress government, Mr. Badal said: "The Congress party has not initiated a single welfare scheme for the weaker sections and is instead responsible for closing down schemes such as the SC scholarship scheme. It was because of these factors that there was a demand from the grassroots level workers of both the SAD and the BSP to form a common front."

He thanked BSP president Mayawati for her decision to join forces with the SAD.

JD(U) should get a berth in Cabinet'

Bihar CM Nitish Kumar had earlier sought proportional representation

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
PATNA

Amid talk of expansion of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Cabinet, the BJP's ruling alliance partner in Bihar, the Janata Dal (United), said on Saturday that every constituent of the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) should be represented at the Centre.

Speaking to mediapersons in Patna, JD(U) national president R.C.P. Singh said: "I too have come to know about the Cabinet expansion of the Union government. Every constituent of the NDA should get participation in the Cabinet. And, being an ally, the JD(U) too should naturally get a berth in the Central Cabinet. In an alliance, every constituent should be respected."

would be expanded before the monsoon session of Parliament.

Earlier in May 2019, Chief Minister and then JD(U) president and Nitish Kumar had said his party would not be part of the NDA government as the BJP's offer was only "symbolic representation".

"They [the BJP] said they want to give one Cabinet rank to every ally. Then we said that we will discuss it with party members and then only we can say anything over this symbolic representation. I spoke to my party leaders and the unanimous view was that we should stay out of the Ministry. Everybody felt there should be proportional representation in an alliance government," Mr. Kumar had said after the oath-taking ceremony of the Union Cabinet of NDA-2.

Mr. Singh, Mr. Kumar's close confidant, had been among the frontrunners for a Cabinet berth at that time.

The Bihar Chief Minister was said to have insisted on "proportional representation" for his party in the Union Cabinet.

In the 2019 Lok Sabha election, the JD(U) won 16 of the total 40 seats in Bihar, while the BJP got 17 seats. The JD(U) has also six members in the Rajya Sabha.

Now, after Mr. Singh's comment, names of three JD(U) leaders have started floating as probables for the Union Cabinet.

Besides, party president R.C.P. Singh, names of MPs Rajiv Ranjan Singh, alias Lalwan Singh (Munger) and Santosh Kumar Kushwaha (Purnia) are also doing the rounds. However, NDA leaders declined to comment on the issue.

"Only party's top leadership can say anything on this," they said.

Row Over Digvijaya's comments

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI/BHOPAL

A row erupted on Saturday over Congress leader Digvijaya Singh's purported comments in an audio chat on social media that his party will have a "relook" at Article 370 revocation and Jammu and Kashmir's lost statehood if it returns to power, with the BJP accusing him of speaking "the language of Pakistan" and spewing venom against India.

Mr. Singh's remarks to a person, who the BJP said was a journalist of Pakistani origin, were seized by its leaders to unleash a torrent of criticism against the opposition party and demand statements from Congress president Sonia Gandhi and her son Rahul Gandhi on the issue.

"The decision of revoking Article 370 and reducing the statehood of J&K is extremely, I would say, sad decision, and the Congress party would certainly have a relook on the issue," Mr. Singh said, according to excerpts of the Clubhouse conversation available on social media.

He was responding to a question about the "way forward" on the issue "once the Modi government is gone".

"It was the Congress which committed the sin of imposing Article 370 in Kashmir...Congress speaks the language of Pakistan," Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan said.

Now, Rajib Banerjee reaches out to Trinamool leadership

BJP leader reiterates his displeasure with the party

SHIV SAHAY SINGH
KOLKATA

A day after Mukul Roy severed ties with the Bharatiya Janata Party and joined the Trinamool Congress, another key BJP leader, Rajib Banerjee, reached out to Trinamool Congress spokesperson Kunal Ghosh on Saturday.

Mr. Banerjee, a former Minister in the Trinamool Congress government, who contested and lost the Assembly polls on a BJP ticket, met Mr. Ghosh at his residence in Kolkata. Though he described his meeting as a "courtesy call", Mr. Banerjee reiterated his displeasure with the BJP and said he maintained that it was not proper to threaten a government that has won such a massive majority with the imposition of President's Rule under Article 356.

Mr. Banerjee was one of the BJP's prize catches before the Assembly polls and the party had sent a private jet so that he and a few other leaders could travel to Delhi and join the BJP. He contested from Domjur and lost by a margin of over 40,000 votes.

Mr. Banerjee maintained that "he was with the BJP till now", but also added the politics of religious division won't succeed in the State of West Bengal. Like Mr. Roy, Mr. Banerjee has been absent at meetings of the West Bengal BJP after the results of the Assembly polls were declared.

There were frantic political developments in the day, with reports of Mr. Roy trying

Modi govt. has failed on every front: Priyanka

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, in a scathing attack on Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday over his handling of the COVID-19 pandemic, said he behaved like a "coward".

"Indians do not come first for the Prime Minister, politics does," Ms. Vadra alleged in a social media post as part of her Zimmedar Kaun (Who's responsible?) campaign.

"The government failed us in every front. They could have managed the situation so that we could have had enough oxygen in the hospitals; they could have listened to experts and increased the number of beds; they could have ordered vaccines when other countries ordered them, back in June, July and May, 2020. They did none of this and just left people to fend for themselves," Ms. Vadra said posting a 39-second video.

ing to reach out to a number of BJP leaders and MLAs. Biswajit Das, BJP MLA from Bagda, also praised Mr. Roy and stated that he respected Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee. Mr. Roy hails from North 24 Parganas and is said to have considerable influence in the district. Sources in the BJP said Mr. Roy had reached out to several BJP MLAs, both in south Bengal and north Bengal.

During the day Mr. Roy also met TMC general secretary Abhishek Banerjee at his office. On Friday, the 67-year-old former Railway Minister had joined the TMC in the presence of Ms. Banerjee after his 3-year-7-month stint as a BJP leader.

"We are not worried about committed workers [because they will stay in the party]. The defectors (aaya Ram, gaya Ram) do not make much difference," State BJP president Dilip Ghosh said.

Minister had kept far too many portfolios with himself.

But the Congress party's central leadership has to proceed cautiously as the Gehlot government has to keep in mind 18 lawmakers – 12 independent MLAs and six former Bahujan Samaj Party MLAs who merged with the Congress – who also expect to be "rewarded" by the Gehlot government.

"Once both sides agree to a number, the next stage of identifying the Ministries and the criteria to become Ministers won't be a problem," said a senior Rajasthani leader.

This leader said that the Minister would include seniority of the MLAs as well as the caste and region they represent.

"We not only have to ensure no first time MLA from the Sachin camp becomes a Minister as we have more than half a dozen MLAs who have won five-six terms, it is also important that the new Cabinet represents the State in terms of regions and castes," he said.

On Friday, All India Congress Committee in-charge Ajay Maken had asserted that there would soon be an expansion of the Ashok Gehlot government but hadn't spelt out a specific timeline.

INTERVIEW | BRANKO MILANOVIC

'No trade-off between lives and livelihoods in the long run'

India has a problem that is different to and deeper than the problem that the rich countries have, says a former lead economist of the World Bank

NARAYAN LAKSHMAN

As the world stumbles through a second year of the COVID-19 pandemic, it is clear that both its catastrophic toll on human life and the severe socio-economic dislocation it has caused matter equally. Yet there is growing inequality associated with governments' and private citizens' responses to the pandemic regarding access to vaccines and policies to support vulnerable groups. Professor Branko Milanovic, of the Stone Center on Socio-Economic Inequality at the City University of New York, and former lead economist in the World Bank's Research Department for almost 20 years, share his perspective on the relationship between inequality and different forms of capitalism across the world.

You have for decades studied capitalism, analysing its sub-types – liberal and political capitalisms – in your 2019 book "Capitalism Alone." The pandemic has thrown its features into relief. How would you describe the way capitalist systems across the world have responded to this global crisis?

If I were to summarise now the situation, I would say that both the U.S. and China have played up to their able to push it under the carpet. That proved to be a disastrous decision. Then, the good side of the Chinese system kicked in, in their ability to share very strong centralised decisions, to have a disciplined population, to implement draconian measures quickly and to have everybody or most mostly everybody agree to that.

The U.S. [response] also has two sides. The negative side was the total disarray, which is not only due to the Trump administration, but general inability to impose any measures, sniping between different levels of government, whether it is the federal, state, or county governments. That's why the U.S. still has the highest number of deaths and cases.

But on the other hand, the technology of the U.S. and Western Europe kicked in and the success in vaccines was absolutely extraordinary. It has never been the strong suits, and really have played very miserably in the areas where they were weak.

China did a pretty bad job in the beginning, not because it did not stop the pandemic immediately, but because the political system in China is such that lower levels of administrative units, in this particular case the province of Hubei and the city of Wuhan, had an incentive to not reveal what was happening to the higher authorities hoping that actually they will be somehow

But that's the issue with the virus – whatever you say now, three months later, that turns out that you've been half wrong case that in 12 months, we have actually developed a vaccine for an entirely new disease and the rollout of the vaccines in the U.S. was quite successful.

Vaccine shortages have hobbled India's battle against the coronavirus with deadly consequences during the second wave. Is this a case of domestic inequality getting exacerbated by global inequality?

In India's case we have to be a little bit careful. If we had this conversation in February, India was actually considered a success case compared to the expectations, which were actually quite dire for India, taking into account what happened in 1918, and the fact that is an enormous country with many people living in close proximity.

But that's the issue with the virus – whatever you say now, three months later, that turns out that you've been half wrong. Now the situation in India is improving. But it was, as you mentioned, disastrous only months ago.

It could be said that the disregard by the government of the dangers of the virus coming back, and maybe the disregard by the people who believed that the virus was behind them, led to the catastrophe that we have witnessed in the last two months.

While mRNA vaccines are seen as cutting edge, and they've been largely deployed in the U.S. and parts of Europe and the U.K., India has not had that.

This is the result of what is called vaccine nationalism in the U.S., U.K. and to a much less extent Europe. These countries have decided that they are not going to export vaccines until they have finished vaccination at home. This shows the talk about cosmopolitan approaches and everybody being equal to be wrong.

Is India doing enough by way of welfare measures to support those who otherwise lack a safety net during economic shocks associated with the pandemic?

India has a problem that is different to and deeper than the problem that the rich countries have. Rich countries such as the U.S. and Europe have been able to go through massive stimulus packages and the support packages, which have never been seen in history. It is much more difficult for countries that do not have resources like that. India could have printed that money, but then you have other issues to face.

Second, the poor population in India is huge. But it was pointed out from very early on that the lockdowns are not really a trade-off in the sense that the lockdowns were saving lives and enabling a relatively fast return to economic activity. There is a trade-off on a daily basis but if you may extend it to one or two months, the trade-off disappeared.

Does India's model of capitalism fall between the liberal capitalism of the West and the political capitalism of China, and if so, will it continue to face challenges of inequality and corruption?

It's not by accident that India had a Planning Commission, given the very strong influence of the Soviet Union in the organisation of the economic sphere, in terms of planning the economy so as to be able to grow faster. That was the similarity which India had in the past. If you look at India today, it is much closer to liberal capitalism because of this political system.

But it is also true that under [Prime Minister Narendra] Modi, there are certain features that really make India [akin to] hybrid liberal capitalism, [including] the general emphasis on growth, and disregard of certain democratic norms.

Expand GST waiver, urges Punjab Minister

'It should apply to all COVID-19 goods'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

CHANDIGARH

Punjab's Finance and Planning Minister Manpreet Singh Badal questioned the GST Council's decision to temporarily cut tax rates on COVID-19 essentials instead of waiving them altogether and asked if COVID-19 is going to end in sync with the tax concession deadlines.

Demanding that all COVID-related goods be zero-rated during the pandemic, Mr. Badal, along with other Finance Ministers representing the Congress, vehemently opposed the imposition of GST on COVID-related items and recorded their note of dissent.

He also reiterated the Congress' concerns about no representative from the party being included in the GST Council's Group of Ministers (GoM) that reviewed the tax rates on COVID-19 essentials. Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman dismissed the charge saying that GoM members are not selected or excluded on the basis of 'party'.

The GoM should "stop acting like a shahenshah (emperor) amid a once in a century crisis", Mr. Badal said.

"COVID-19 GST should be zero-rated... How would a consumer feel seeing GST reflected on an invoice on COVID-19 treatment?" he remarked, terming the retention of GST levies on several preventive material and treatment essentials as "insensitive". While the Council exempted two medicines – tocilizumab and amphotericin-B – from GST altogether, other medicines and goods such as masks, PPE kits, hand sanitisers as well as medical grade oxygen, testing kits, ventilators, bi-PAP machines and pulse oximeters continue to be taxed at a lower 5% rate.

"Stop collecting revenues on furnaces for crematoriums. Stop taxing RT-PCR machines. They are already purchased at concessional rate, and practically all States also regulate the price of the COVID-19 test," he pointed out.

It is preposterous that the principal opposition party of India in both the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha has been excluded in the GoM," Mr. Badal said.

Mr. Badal cautioned that the attempt to pick and choose exemptions on the grounds of inverted duty structure or cheaper imports would end up destroying the very foundation of GST.

Voices muzzled, says Bengal FM

Amit Mitra sends dissent note after GST Council meet

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

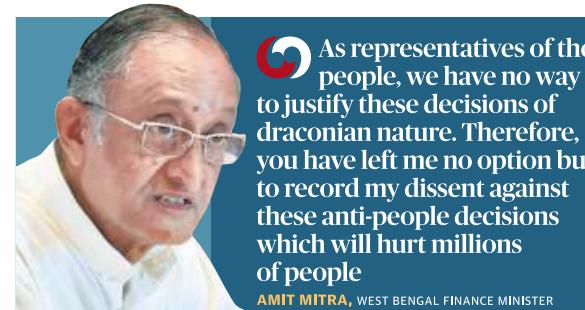

NEW DELHI

Terming the GST Council's move to retain tax levies on COVID relief materials as a 'totally anti-people decision' that was 'thrust' upon members, West Bengal Finance Minister Amit Mitra accused the Union Finance Ministry of muzzling his voice in the Council, in a strongly worded dissent note.

Mr. Mitra said he repeatedly tried to voice objections after Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman announced the Council's decision as its chairperson, but "the Secretary brought the meeting to a close and the virtual link was cut off".

"Whither GST Council?" Mr. Mitra remarked in a missive addressed to Ms. Sitharaman, marked to all State Finance Ministers.

The West Bengal Finance Minister said that he, along with several Ministers, proposed zero-rating or imposing a 0.1% GST on COVID related materials for a limited period, keeping the likely

"Unfortunately, you decided not to agree with the suggestions of so many Ministers," the West Bengal Minister told the Union Finance Minister. "The GST Council was to consider providing significant relief to the sufferings of the common people and the struggling health infrastructure... The consumers of the COVID materials in this hour of need would be greatly benefited with only a 0.1% GST," he wrote.

"As representatives of the people, we have no way to justify these decisions of draconian nature. Therefore, you have left me no option but to record my dissent against these anti-people decisions which will hurt millions of people," he emphasised.

Mr. Mitra said that Ms. Sitharaman referred to several of his observations towards the end of the Council's meeting, but he was not allowed to respond.

Anurag Thakur blames 'poor connection'

NEW DELHI

Union Minister of State for Finance Anurag Thakur said it seemed as if West Bengal Finance Minister Amit Mitra, who said his voice was muzzled at Saturday's GST Council meeting, did not have a 'stable VC connection' for the meeting.

"Revenue Secretary (Taran Bajaj) repeatedly informed him his line was breaking, that he was not properly audible and to turn off his video for better connectivity," Mr. Thakur said in a series of tweets.

"During the speech made by the Uttar Pradesh Finance Minister, nobody heard Dr. Mitra ji speak up nor did he ask to have his opinion heard. Other members can attest to this," Mr. Thakur asserted.

"The Finance Minister has never stifled dissent in the GST Council," Mr. Thakur added.

IMA to hold protest on June 18

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

NEW DELHI

The Indian Medical Association will hold a protest on June 18 against assault on doctors.

In a statement, the apex medical body asked all its State and local branches across the country to observe the protest, with the slogan of 'save the saviours', by wearing black badges, masks, ribbons and shirts and running an awareness campaign against violence targeting healthcare professionals.

The IMA said press conferences will also be organised, and they will also meet local NGOs and voluntary service leaders.

It termed "extremely disturbing" a series of violence against doctors in the past two weeks in Assam, Bihar, West Bengal, Delhi, Uttar Pradesh, Karnataka and other places.

It demanded the implementation of the Central Hospital and Health Care Professionals Protection Act with the Indian Penal Code and the Code of Criminal Procedure, standardisation and augmentation of security in each hospital, and declaring hospitals as protected zones, among others. It further said that June 15 will be observed as a National Demand Day and press meets will be held across the country.

'Monoclonal antibody treatment beneficial'

But the timing is key, say doctors

BINDU SHAJAN PERAPPADAN

NEW DELHI

Monoclonal antibody treatment is now seen as a relatively effective and safer alternative in treating COVID-19 patients, with doctors stating that, as with any other drug, timing is very important for the administration of the therapy.

Monoclonal antibody drugs fight disease by enlisting natural immune system functions.

If given within 72 hours of the appearance of symptoms, it is proven to show good results and could be the way forward in tackling the SARS-CoV-2 virus, doctors note. Monoclonal antibodies have previously been used to treat infections such as Ebola and HIV.

Monoclonal antibody treatment isn't a one-size-fits-all therapy. It is to be given only to mild COVID-19 patients who are not requiring oxygen, and there is high risk of progression or hospitalisation due to existing comorbidities," warns Akash Budhraja, senior pulmonologist, Akash Healthcare.

Outwitting the virus "Antibodies for COVID target specific proteins and destroy them before they initiate inflammation, which causes worsening of symptoms like breathlessness, blood clotting and severe pneumonia. In simple words, antibody response, which takes 7-10 days after infection, gives the virus the window period to attack the body. This window period is covered by injecting monoclonal antibodies, which help in reducing the symptoms and disease progression," said Dr. Budhraja.

In the national capital, the therapy was successfully used in two patients recently – a 36-year-old healthcare worker and an 80-year-old male at the Sir Ganga Ram Hospital. According to the doctors here, both patients showed improvement within 12 hours of administering the treatment.

Treating physician Pooja Khosla, senior consultant, Department of Medicine, Sir Ganga Ram Hospital, said that the two patients were administered REG-Cov2 (Casirivimab and Imdevimab), designed to produce resistance against the SARS-CoV-2 coronavirus.

Monoclonal antibody treatment could prove to be a game changer in times to come if used at the appropriate time. It can be given up to 10 days from the beginning of the symptoms and is not for low oxygen level patients. This awareness about early identification of the high risk category in our population and timely therapy with monoclonal antibody as day care treatment may reduce the burden of cost on the healthcare sector," Dr. Khosla said.

The doctor added that monoclonal antibody therapy cost ₹60,000-70,000 and significantly reduced hospital stay.

"The key principle while using the therapy was that it should be given at the right time to the high risk group," she said.

PLA campaign highlights LAC actions

Ahead of CPC centenary, soldiers to present China's flag 'raised on Pangong Lake' during nationwide tour

ANANTH KRISHNAN

China's People's Liberation Army (PLA) has begun a domestic campaign ahead of the ruling Communist Party's July 1 centenary in which it is highlighting last year's actions of its border defence troops along the Line of Actual Control (LAC), specifically in Pangong Lake, as part of a broader push to underline the military's firm support to President Xi Jinping.

Under the campaign, two groups of eight "youth role models", a mix of military and students, are visiting colleges and universities across China. The group is being organised by the Central Military Commission's Political Work Department and the Party's Youth League. The group includes "elite and skilled" PLA soldiers, including some stationed in units along the LAC, along with "anti-epidemic pioneers, elite female coastguards and scientists dedicated to polar region research", the military said.

As part of the campaign, the soldiers are presenting China's national flag "once raised on Pangong Lake", a key site of tensions in 2020, at various military units and educational institutions as they tour the country.

Two-fold message

The aim is "to learn and internalise the spirit of President Xi's important speech delivered during his recent visit to Tsinghua University and to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Communist Party of China," the PLA said. Mr. Xi had, in his speech, "encouraged young people to rise up to the mission of national rejuvenation".

The campaign appears aimed at delivering a two-fold message targeted more at a domestic audience than abroad: to declare the military's unequivocal support to Mr. Xi, and to also send a message of patriotism ahead of the July 1 anniversary. The PLA is unique among militaries in serving, first and foremost, a political party and not a state, and political education is a key part of military training in China.

The PLA's actions during the LAC tensions of 2020 appear to be figuring prominently in the campaign. Four service members of the border defence troops in the Karakoram went to visit several military or civilian units to share their stories of guarding the border and defending the motherland. PLA spokesperson and Senior Colonel Tan Kefei said at his monthly briefing last month, announcing the campaign.

An "emphasis of combat readiness" was part of the message. "One group of the role models went to the coastal regions in southeast China, and the other group went to the Gobi Desert in northwest China, where they boarded fighting vehicles and warships, visited squads and border sentry posts," he said. "They went to combat positions and training grounds, where they joined the service members in training and guard duty, providing professional knowledge counselling and skill training to soldiers. The Karakoram border defence troops presented the Chinese national flag once raised on the Pangong Lake to the National Flag Guards, a way of conveying their enthusiasm for defending the motherland."

The PLA spokesperson referred to the campaign highlighting a message to promote what he called the "Karakoram spirit", that was characterised by devotion to border defence, hard work, selfless dedication and tenacity".

The LAC tensions, which began in late April and early May 2020, culminated in a clash on June 15, 2020 in the Galwan Valley, which marked the worst violence along the border since 1967. Both sides have since disengaged in Galwan Valley and on the north and south banks of Pangong Lake, but talks have remained stalled in other areas, including Depsang, Demchok, Gogra and Hot Springs. Indian officials have said the disengagement process remains partially completed and the de-induction process of troops still deployed in forward areas near the LAC, a key measure to restore normalcy, is yet to take place more than a year after the tensions began.

G7 leaders take on China, plan to stop new pandemics

They pledge huge infrastructure investment to counter BRI

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

CARBIS BAY

The G7 on Saturday unveiled U.S.-led plans to counter China in infrastructure funding for poorer nations, and a new accord to prevent future pandemics, as the elite group sought to showcase Western unity at its first in-person summit since 2019.

Promising to "collectively catalyse" hundreds of billions of infrastructure investment for low- and middle-income countries, the G7 leaders said they would offer a "values-driven, high-standard and transparent" partnership.

Their "Build Back Better World" (B3W) project is aimed at competing with China's trillion-dollar Belt and Road infrastructure (BRI) initiative, which has been widely criticised for saddling countries with unmanageable debt but has included even G7 member Italy since launching in 2013.

The White House said President Joe Biden and fellow leaders addressed "strategic competition" with Beijing on the second day of their three-day summit in Carbis Bay, southwest England.

The G7 – Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and the U.S. – will formally publish the pact on Sunday.

German Chancellor Angela Merkel called it an "important initiative". "We can't sit back and say that China will do it but it's the G7's ambition to have a positive agenda for a number of countries in the world which are still lagging behind... I welcome it," she said.

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

RIYADH

Saudi Arabia announced Saturday it will allow 60,000 residents vaccinated against COVID-19 to perform this year's hajj, but Muslims from abroad will be barred for a second straight year.

The hajj – a must for able-bodied Muslims at least once in their lives – typically packs millions of pilgrims into congested religious sites and could be a major source of contagion amid the coronavirus pandemic.

This year it would be "open for nationals and residents of the Kingdom, limited to 60,000 pilgrims", the hajj ministry said, quoted by the official Saudi Press Agency.

The pilgrimage, scheduled to be held in July, would be limited to those who have been vaccinated and are aged 18-65 with no chronic illnesses, it said.

Bitcoin push

How does El Salvador plan to use the cryptocurrency as legal tender and what are the risks involved?

P.J. GEORGE

The story so far: On June 9, El Salvador became the first sovereign nation to make a cryptocurrency legal tender. The law pushed by its 39-year-old President, Nayib Bukele, passed with 62 out of 84 votes. It mandates that Bitcoin should now be accepted as a valid payment by all establishments, except those that do not have the technical wherewithal to do so. This puts the digital currency that does not answer to any government monetary policies on the same footing as the country's primary currency, the United States dollar.

Why is the U.S. dollar the currency in El Salvador? El Salvador fully 'dollarised' its economy in 2001. Countries adopt the U.S. dollar as their official currency for several reasons, such as when their local currencies fail (for example, Zimbabwe, which saw inflation in multimillion percentages), or to take advantage of the stability that it offers and attract investments. One of the downsides is that the economies of 'dollarised' countries get linked to the monetary policies of the Federal Reserve in Washington. The U.S. central bank could set rates that may benefit the U.S. economy but end up hurting economies that use the same currency.

What is the rationale for using Bitcoin? The Bill that Mr. Bukele proposed said that "Central banks are increasingly taking actions that may cause harm to the economic stability of El Salvador" and that Bitcoin was being adopted "in order to mitigate the negative impact from central banks". The country's economy is also heavily reliant on remittances from El Salvadorans working abroad. According to World Bank data, remittances made up almost $6 billion in 2019, which was about 20% of the country's GDP – one of the highest ratios in the world. By enabling the transfer of money via Bitcoins, Mr. Bukele says El Salvadorans will save on transaction fees of banks and agencies.

Politically, the current government in El Salvador and the Joe Biden administration in the United States are at odds. Recently, some of President Bukele's right-hand men found mention in a U.S. State Department list of corrupt officials in central America. The United States's international aid agency is also moving money away from the Bukele government after it voted to remove all members of the Supreme Court.

Cryptocurrencies as commodities are highly volatile, a recent example being the massive swings in the values of Bitcoin and Dogecoin. Another problem is the increasing energy use associated with cryptocurrencies

How does Bitcoin work? Bitcoin is the first and biggest of decentralised cryptocurrencies, which are online payment systems that are increasingly becoming mainstream. Ethereum, Tether, and Binance Coin are some of the many others that have emerged after Bitcoin. Cryptocurrencies are built on the back of blockchain technology, a system of distributed, cryptographically-secured account keeping. In this system, the users keep a tab on every digital 'coin' and transaction rather than a banking system with a governing body at its centre.

Why are governments wary? Due to their core nature that shuns centralised control, governments globally have been wary of cryptocurrencies. A report from the U.S. Library of Congress notes that most countries have warned their citizens against investing in cryptocurrencies, let alone allowing transactions in them. Some have tried to use the technology to create government-sanctioned digital currencies. China, a hub of cryptocurrency activity, has issued a digital Yuan on blockchain while it cracks down on other cryptocurrencies. The Bank of England has also proposed a digital Sterling.

However, many countries, including India, have allowed the treatment of cryptocurrencies as commodities, resulting in a rising tide of investment in them. After its introduction in 2009, Bitcoin saw its biggest gain in value last year, having started 2020 at $7,200 per coin and touching $65,000 in April of 2021, before falling to $30,000 in May.

Cryptocurrencies as commodities are highly volatile, a recent example being the massive swings in the values of Bitcoin and Dogecoin, based merely on the tweets of cryptocurrency 'evangelist' Elon Musk.

Another problem is the increasing energy use associated with cryptocurrencies. The 'mining' of Bitcoin, where individuals or companies set up powerful systems to support the blockchain network, for which they are rewarded in the currency, consumes "about the same amount of energy annually as the Netherlands did in 2019", says a Reuters report citing data from the University of Cambridge and the International Energy Agency. "Bitcoin production is estimated to generate between 22 and 22.9 million metric tonnes of carbon dioxide emissions a year, or between the levels produced by Jordan and Sri Lanka," says the report.

How is El Salvador mitigating the risks? According to Mr. Bukele, the government will protect citizens from the volatility of Bitcoin prices by guaranteeing quick convertibility to dollars. If a shopkeeper does not want to hold the Bitcoin which they now have to accept from customers, the government will purchase it through a $150-million trust created at the country's development bank.

As for the carbon footprint, Mr. Bukele says he has asked the State-owned geothermal electric company, LaGeo, to connect renewable energy from the country's volcanoes to bitcoin mining facilities.

Changes in vaccine policy for COVID-19

What modifications has the Centre announced and how will the supply of doses be ramped up?

G. ANANTHAKRISHNAN

The story so far: Prime Minister Narendra Modi on June 7 reversed the Central government's decentralised policy for procurement of COVID-19 vaccines, declaring that from June 21, vaccines for everyone above the age of 18 years would be procured by the Central government and distributed free to the States. This ended the month-old controversial system of States being asked to procure vaccines for the 18-44 years age group at prices announced by domestic manufacturers and import vaccines through open tenders.

Why was the policy reversed?

The Centre's announcement came after the Supreme Court on May 31 held that the Union government's policy of not providing free vaccines to those in the 18-44 years age bracket was prima facie "arbitrary and irrational". "The policy of the Central Government for conducting free vaccination themselves for groups under the first phases, and replacing it with paid vaccination by the State/UT Governments and private hospitals for the persons between 18-44 years is, prima facie, arbitrary and irrational," the court said in its order.

Under the latest policy, the Centre said it will procure up to 75% of the doses of vaccines from manufacturers and will provide them free of cost to the State governments. Private institutions can procure the remaining 25% of doses.

What is the state of vaccine availability?

Data on availability from individual manufacturers and supplies to each State have not been published uniformly by the Centre. Amid reports of severe shortages in many States and the vaccination drive being suspended for the 18-44 years age group in a number of places, the Centre said on June 9 that thus far, over 25 crore (25,06,41,440) vaccine doses had been provided to the States and Union Territories through the free distribution channel and direct procurement category. Of these, 23,74,21,808 doses had been consumed, including wastage, and 1,33,68,727 remained to be administered.

Some data is available from the Centre's arguments in the Supreme Court on the three available vaccines at present. The court recorded the position on May 31 as follows: the production at the Serum Institute of India (SII), which makes Covishield, is being raised from 5 crore doses a month to 6.5 crore doses by July 2021; Bharat Biotech, the maker of Covaxin, will raise capacity from 90 lakh to 2 crore doses per month, touching 5.5 crore doses per month by July; availability of Sputnik V will go up from 30 lakh doses to 1.2 crore doses a month by July.

In a letter to Union Home Minister Amit Shah, sent at the end of May, SII said it would be able to provide 10 crore doses in June. Moreover, the Union Health Ministry said the production capacity of Covaxin, which was 1 crore doses in April this year, was expected to touch 10 crore doses a month by September. The Centre said it was in talks with other manufacturers, such as Pfizer, Moderna and Johnson & Johnson, for procurement, but the negotiations were reportedly bogged down by demands from the companies for indemnity against any compensation claims.

Soon after the reversal of the Centre's vaccination policy, it was announced that fresh orders for 44 crore doses of Covishield and Covaxin had been placed by the Union government, which would be available from August-December this year. In addition, it also placed an order for 30 crore doses of a protein sub-unit vaccine produced by Hyderabad-based Biological E.

The Supreme Court has directed the Centre to provide

The Centre has said that a total of 12 crore doses will be available for June this year. Of this, 6.09 crore doses will be available to the States and Union Territories for the priority groups specific details of its vaccination initiative, including procurement, percentage of population covered, and plan for coverage.

What is the outlook for June supply?

The Centre has said that a total of 12 crore doses will be available for June this year. Of this, 6.09 crore doses will be available to the States and UTs for the priority groups priority groups – healthcare workers, frontline workers and people aged 45 years and above – as free supply from the government. Besides this, around 5.86 crore doses will be available for direct procurement by the States, UTs and private hospitals.

This statement was issued at May-end, and the court ordered the Centre to outline its plan and the official policy for the future. Greater clarity will come from the court submissions on how the available doses will be used, including the quantum for private hospitals.

Meanwhile, regulatory requirements for approved imported vaccines have been relaxed and they can be used almost immediately upon receipt, as the government has waived the requirements of bridging trials and testing of each batch at the Central Drugs Laboratory, Kasauli. Small quantities of doses were supplied to State governments in the first week of June as immunisation rates dropped sharply.

How has the pricing of vaccines changed?

Pricing of COVID-19 vaccines, both for government procurement and for beneficiaries, has shifted since the first round of sponsored vaccinations in January for healthcare and frontline workers. For vaccination of these priority sectors, the two vaccines were initially sold to the Centre at special prices – ₹200 a dose for Covishield up to 100 million doses, and ₹295 per dose for Covaxin, with free doses of it provided to the Centre effectively reducing the price to ₹206.50 each.

When the second phase of vaccination was launched on March 1, the Centre capped the price for Covishield and Covaxin at private hospitals at ₹250 per dose.

Under the decentralised distribution of vaccines from

May 1, this cap was removed and manufacturers announced differential pricing for State governments and private hospitals.

However, these developments were soon rendered moot by a widespread shortage of vaccines, and governments largely provided vaccines only to the 60-plus and targeted 45-plus categories.

Now, having taken over the responsibility of free vaccination for all age groups from June 21, the Central government has announced new prices for private hospitals. They can charge a maximum of ₹150 per dose as service charge and a GST of 5%, and with these, the maximum price for a dose of Covishield would be ₹780, for Covaxin it will be ₹4,410 per dose, and Sputnik V would be available at ₹1,145 a shot.

What is the situation in the States?

According to data compiled by The Hindu, as of June 12, 14.9% of the population had got at least one dose of a vaccine, and 3.4% had got both doses.

Many big States had fully vaccinated only a small segment of the population as of that date: 51.2 lakh in Maharashtra, 45.1 lakh in Gujarat, 29.8 lakh in Karnataka, 22.2 lakh in Kerala, and 26.1 lakh in Andhra Pradesh. Single-dose coverage in these States varied between 88.7 lakh (in Kerala) and 2 crore (in Maharashtra).

The shortage of doses prompted many States to announce a partial suspension of vaccinations, particularly for the 18-44 years age group, and in some cases, for first doses.

The Hindu's Data Team, based on official data up to May 24 – after which they were not published – estimated that utilisation in the largest States ranged from 86.6% in Uttar Pradesh, 84.7% in Tamil Nadu, 97.9% in Maharashtra and 92.8% in Bihar; the figure was 95.4% for Delhi. In the second wave of infections, the demand for vaccines shot up. For instance, in the past few weeks, Tamil Nadu's utilisation rate has increased sharply, and as of June 6, the State had utilised over 95% of vaccines it received from the Centre and through its own channels.

Most States drew a blank with their efforts to directly procure vaccines at the global level, since pharma companies preferred to deal only with national governments. The Delhi government has complained that the Centre issued a gag order to States and UTs against publishing information on vaccine supply and availability, as the world's "largest immunisation programme" came under intense scrutiny.

New guidelines on Remdesivir, steroids

Why has the Centre revised the protocol for mild cases and which drugs are not recommended anymore?

BINDU SHAJAN PERAPPADAN

The story so far: The Union Health Ministry has revised its guidelines for the treatment of COVID-19 patients, particularly for the use of steroids, with doctors reporting a worrying rise in medical complications, such as mucormycosis, due to the abuse of drugs and therapies during treatment. The new protocol advises doctors to drop from usage medicines such as ivermectin, doxycycline and hydroxychloroquine to treat mild COVID-19 cases. The revised guidelines, issued on May 27, recommend the use of antipyretics for fever and antitussives for cold in asymptomatic and mild cases.

What are the complications being reported?

Mucormycosis causes black lesions on the nasal bridge or the upper inside of the mouth, which can quickly become more severe, leading to blurred or double vision, chest pain, breathing difficulties, and coughing of blood. COVID-19 patients with diabetes and a weakened immune system are particularly prone to this fungal attack.

Doctors point out that it is clear that the virus affects not just the respiratory system but other organs as well, including the liver and kidneys. "Long COVID-19 is also seen among recovered patients well into three months and beyond. People with co-morbidities are more vulnerable and irrational use of drugs can have extreme adverse effects on the outcome with COVID-19," they say.

Which drugs have been dropped from the list?

For patients with mild symptoms, the Ministry dropped from its recommendations several drugs that were being used widely for treatment until now. For example, the Ministry has removed hydroxychloroquine, ivermectin, azithromycin, doxycycline, zinc and favipiravir from its list of recommended drugs for treating patients with mild infection. Plasma therapy, which was previously used extensively, has also been dropped from the list.

The Ministry also dissuaded medical practitioners from prescribing unnecessary tests, such as CT scans. For asymptomatic cases, the guidelines said no medication is required, while medications for other co-morbid conditions should be continued. The new protocol calls for a healthy balanced diet with proper hydration, while advising patients and their families to stay connected and engage in positive talks through phone, video calls, etc.

In mild cases, the guidelines recommended self-monitoring for fever, breathlessness, oxygen saturation or worsening of any symptoms. People may take antipyretics or antitussives for symptomatic relief, and may inhale budesonide at a dose of 800 mcg twice a day for five days for cough, the guidelines said. "No other COVID-19-specific medication required. Patients may have to be investigated further if symptoms persist or deteriorate," the document states.

What do the guidelines specify on medicines?

The Ministry has also revised its policy on Remdesivir, stating that it can be given only to "select moderate/severe hospitalised COVID-19 patients" on supplemental oxygen. The Ministry noted that this is a reserve drug approved under Emergency Use Authorisation based only on limited scientific evidence globally. It further stated that the drug is not to be prescribed for patients with mild symptoms who are under home care or at COVID Care Centres, and that doctors are advised to exercise extreme caution in using this reserve/experimental/Emergency Use Authorisation drug.

The Ministry said the advisory and revised guidelines are aimed at stopping the misuse of drugs and therapies which cost a lot and have limited availability, along with the potential to cause harm

The Ministry said the advisory and revised guidelines are aimed at stopping the misuse of drugs and therapies which cost a lot and have limited availability, along with the potential to cause harm

What do the guidelines say for asymptomatic patients? For asymptomatic and mild cases, the guidelines suggest a six-minute walk test. Patients should walk for six minutes with a pulse oximeter attached to a finger. If oxygen saturation falls below 94% or if the reading varies from three to five percentage points, or if the patient feels unwell (lightheaded, short of breath), admission to a hospital for observation may be required.

Has anything been suggested for children with COVID-19?

The government has issued comprehensive guidelines for the management of COVID-19 among children under 18 years of age, in which Remdesivir has not been recommended and rational use of HRCT (high-resolution computed tomography) imaging has been suggested. Also, the guidelines note that steroids are harmful in asymptomatic and mild cases of infection. Mask is not recommended for children below five years of age. However, children aged between six and 11 years may wear a mask, but only under the supervision of parents and the consulting doctor, the guidelines said.

For asymptomatic infection among children, the guidelines recommend no specific medication and advise following appropriate measures (wearing a mask, following strict hand hygiene, physical distancing) and a nutritious diet. The guidelines say that for mild infection, paracetamol at 10-15mg/kg/dose may be given every four to six hours for fever; throat-soothing agents and warm saline gargles in older children and adolescents have been recommended for cough.

Doctors have noted that a high percentage of children who got infected and were hospitalised during the second wave of infections had either co-morbidities or low immunity. They added that healthy children with mild illness recovered without the need for hospitalisation.

GROUP OF SEVEN

Reviving the spirit of multilateralism

The G7 countries seek to overcome internal differences and strengthen their economic and geopolitical bond to face multiple challenges from fighting COVID-19 to tackling the rise of China

SRINIVASAN RAMANI

In Focus

■ Formed in 1975 in the aftermath of the 1973 Oil Crisis, the G7 then collectively produced 70% of the world's GDP, a number that has dropped to 40% now

■ The G7 became the G8 with Russia's admission into the group in 1998. But it reverted to the G7 in 2014, following Russia's annexation of Crimea

■ Over the years, the group has taken up a host of issues ranging from economic growth to environmental issues and terrorism. The latest summit seeks to address global health challenges

As the leaders of seven nations – the U.S., Germany, the U.K., France, Canada, Japan and Italy – meet in Cornwall in south-west England, they would be marking the 47th edition of the "Group of seven" summit. Besides the international milieu in which this summit is being conducted – the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic – its significance lies also in who is not attending the summit: former U.S. President Donald Trump.

The G7 prides itself as a group of nations that steadfastly promote liberal democracy and enjoy economic prosperity, which they seek to institutionalise through multilateral cooperation. When Mr. Trump was at the helm in the U.S., his transactional approach to international relations showed disdain for multilateralism, evidenced in particular in the way he pulled the U.S out of the Paris Accord, and openly complained about the summit itself being "outdated". The current President of the U.S., Joe Biden has sought to reorient his country's policy towards multilateralism, which includes closer coordination with traditional allies in the Global North and this sets the stage for a renewed emphasis of purpose for the G7 as they meet in Cornwall.

Already, the Finance Ministers of the G7, who had met on June 4-5 in the run-up to the summit, had agreed to backing a minimum global tax rate of 15% for multinational corporations, thereby setting the stage for MNCs to pay a fairer share of taxes in jurisdictions where they make money and profits, rather than playing governments in a race where they will compete on who will tax them the least and allowing MNCs to take advantage of "tax havens". Even considering the fact that the tax rate of 15% is low according to some critics (Mr. Biden had himself proposed 21%), this move will herald corrective steps that could benefit both large and medium economies. The U.S. in particular is desperate to shore up its revenues as its government announced big spending plans to tide over the economic crisis wrought by the pandemic. The Biden administration has hinted that it could gain nearly $500 billion in tax revenue over a decade if the global minimum tax idea comes to pass.

More steps remain for this to become reality – the G7 countries would have to convince other nations in the broader G20, which includes China, India, Russia, and South Africa. According to the U.K.-based Tax Justice Network, India suffers an annual loss of $10 billion due to lax tax laws on MNCs globally and countries such as India should also agree to this deal, but getting a sign-in from others such as Ireland, which benefits from lower taxes on MNCs, will not be easy. Even within the U.S., where President Biden's power to get legislation passed rests on a razor-thin majority at the Senate and House of Representatives of

The Finance Ministers of the G7, who had met on June 4-5 in the run-up to the summit, had agreed to backing a minimum global tax rate of 15% for MNCs

Congress, the going would not be easy as the Republican Party is loath to taxing corporations.

Yet, for the G7 to have made a global minimum tax a possibility was a "multilateral" breakthrough of sorts for cooperation among these nations. Despite its collectively large economies and a commitment to liberal democratic values, the G7 is no longer the behemoth that it was. Formed in 1975 in the aftermath of the 1973 Oil Crisis, the G7 then collectively produced 70% of the world's GDP, a number that has dropped to 40%, as the Economist points out. The larger G20 has become a more relevant multilateral body due to the inclusion of economies such as Brazil, China, India and South Africa but the ability of the G7 summit to set the tone for cooperation on global issues has not diminished.

Economic differences

When the G7 summits began in the mid-1970s, the heads of states sought to resolve economic differences related to exchange rate policy, growth, inflation, energy policy among others and this set the stage for multilateral trade arrangements and negotiations with the European Union and Japan assuming greater responsibilities on multilateral issues along with the U.S. Interestingly, the consensus among these nations, especially in the 1990s, to promote policies for the ease of flow of multinational capital and a concomitant reduction in expansive welfareism by the states, set the tone for the "tax competition" among states which went on to benefit MNCs.

As the summits progressed, the emphasis on economic issues remained salient and endured, but the heads of States began to prioritise other matters as well, especially after the end of the Cold War – the environment, debt relief for developing countries, and the strains on globalisation. Terrorism also became a key agenda for discussion and action. The G7 also became the G8 with Russia's admission into the group in 1998, despite its limited national wealth compared to the other countries. The G8 reverted to the G7 again in 2014, following Russia's expulsion after its annexation of Crimea.

The Cornwall summit includes invitees in heads of state from outside the G7 as well – Australia, South Korea and India with Prime Minister Narendra Modi set to attend it remotely. The presence of these three countries is seen as a nod to the recognition of their discontent with the influence of China, which persists with what the West believes is an anachronistic single party regime but is also an economic superpower. In the summit, G7 leaders unveiled the Build Back Better World project, which pledges hundreds of billions of infrastructure investment in low- and middle-income countries based on "values-driven, high-standard and transparent" partnerships. It is seen as a counterweight against China's multi-billion-dollar Belt and Road Initiative.

While U.K. Prime Minister Boris Johnson has sought to boil the traditional trans-Atlantic ties with the U.S. and a revival of their mutual role in setting the multilateral tone for G7 and beyond, the Brexit issue has cast a shadow over their ties.

Mr. Biden, unlike Mr. Trump, had steadfastly opposed Brexit and his advisers have raised concerns over the Britain's dispute with the EU over Northern Ireland. Mr. Johnson might be pressed to make concessions to address such concerns.

Global health

More significantly though, the G7's declaration on global health in which they commit to resources to quickly develop and license vaccines, medicines and diagnostics for future diseases is an important step that recognises the havoc that COVID-19 has wrought across the world and the need to prepare for future epidemics.

Mr. Johnson has said he wishes for the entire world to be vaccinated by 2022, but has not specified details as to how this can be achieved. If the summit manages to agree to substantially extend vaccine availability for low-income countries, that would be a great achievement.

After all, the disparity in vaccine availability with the U.S. and EU cornering vaccines far more than what their populations need while other countries, India and those in Africa, are hampered by shortages, is a consequence of the autarkic turn during the Trump period.

If the G7 seeks to revive its multilateral emphasis in the spirit of globalisation, addressing the vaccine disparity will truly take it forward from the dregs of Trumpism.

Y.S. SHARMINA

The rise of the daughter

YSR's daughter is entering active politics in Telangana with her own party

N. RAHUL

A new party will be born in Telangana on July 8, the birth anniversary of former Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Y.S. Rajasekhara Reddy, when his daughter, Y.S. Sharmila, begins a new political journey. When news broke about her plans to float a political party in Telangana, many wondered what impact her move would have on the State's politics as she hailed from Kadapa in Andhra Pradesh, where her elder brother, Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy, is the Chief Minister.

Ms. Sharmila had never been into the rough and tumble of politics until June 2012, when she campaigned for her brother in his absence in byelections to 18 Assembly and one Lok Sabha constituencies. Jagan, as Mr. Reddy, president of the YSR Congress Party (YSRCP), is popularly known, was then in jail in connection with a dozen asset cases. The YSRCP then won 15 Assembly seats and the lone Nellore Lok Sabha constituency in the polls, which took place after Jagan parted with the Congress.

In October 2012, Ms. Sharmila launched a 3,112-km padayatra (journey on foot), from her father's grave in Idupulapaya near their hometown Pulivendula in Kadapa. The yatra culminated at the column "Vijaya Vatika", constructed to symbolise the success of the 'Maha Prasthanam' yatra of her father at Ichapuram in Sriakulam in 2003.

Ms. Sharmila was received by huge crowds at the over 150 public meetings she addressed en route. She had to take a two-month break in the midst of the yatra because of a fractured knee, which required surgery. During the speeches, she invoked memories of her father, with his trademark wave to crowds with the left hand. She walked 13 km a day and held several racha banda meetings (interaction with village communities). She remained at home following Jagan's release on bail after a year and a half of imprisonment in September 2013. He then resumed his own "Odarpu yatra", to console the families of his father's supporters who died.

Nearly five years later, Ms. Sharmila shot back to fame again, this time with an 11-day bus yatra to campaign for the YSRCP in the 2019 Assembly and Lok Sabha elections. The yatra went with a brand name "Bye bye Babu" and the bus had a ticking clock, suggesting that it was a countdown for Chandrababu Naidu, who was then the Chief Minister of Andhra Pradesh. The YSRCP secured a resounding victory in the polls.

Differences in family

With the rout of Mr. Naidu in the elections and Jagan becoming Chief Minister, Ms. Sharmila and her mother, who was the honorary president of the YSRCP, became silent. There were reports that differences had cropped up in the family when Ms. Sharmila made public her political ambitions by convening a meeting of her supporters from Telangana at her Lotus Pond residence on February 9.

Jagan's chief adviser and YSRCP general secretary Sajala Ramakrishna Reddy claimed that the differences were sorted out. "We have tried our level best to dissuade Sharmila from plunging into active politics, which is a tough area, but her decision is [her] conscious choice. She feels there is a political vacuum in Telangana," said Mr. Ramakrishna Reddy.

He made it clear that neither Jagan nor the YSRCP will have anything to do with Ms. Sharmila's party.

Ever since, there has been hectic political activity at Lotus Pond. A close aide of the family, Vaduka Rajagopal, applied for registration of the party as YSR Telangana Party with the Election Commission. Ms. Sharmila then announced formation of the party at a public meeting in Khammam, following a series of meetings with supporters. She also held a hunger strike at Dharna Chowk in Hyderabad, focusing on unemployment in Telangana, but she was moved away by the police in a day after giving permission for three days.

Ms. Sharmila visited a village in Medak district to console the kin of youth who committed suicide due to unemployment on Telangana formation day (June 2) and also paid tributes to Telangana martyrs memorial in Hyderabad. On Twitter, she is lashing out at the government. She seems determined on what should be done – build a political party as a counterweight to the Telangana Rashtra Samithi like her brother did in Andhra Pradesh. It's to be seen whether she would manage to pull it off.

ANUP CHANDRA PANDEY

A bureaucrat for all seasons

The former U.P. Chief Secretary has been appointed Election Commissioner

MAHESH LANGA
OMAR RASHID

When the news of Anup Chandra Pandey's appointment as Election Commissioner came on Tuesday night, it surprised many because the buzz in Delhi's power corridors was about a few other names who retired from the Government of India at the secretary level. However, the government picked the retired Chief Secretary of poll-bound Uttar Pradesh for the coveted position.

A former IAS officer of the 1984 batch, the 62-year-old Mr. Pandey joins the three-member Commission as its third member. Former Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) chairman Sudish Chandra, who is the Chief Election Commissioner, and former Finance Secretary Rajiv Kumar are the other two members.

Mr. Pandey retired after an extended tenure as the Chief Secretary of Uttar Pradesh. He became Chief Secretary in June 2018 and retired in August 2019, after a six-month extension. As the Election Commissioner, his first major task would be to conduct the Assembly election in Uttar Pradesh, where Yogi Adityanath will seek re-election.

However, a cursory glance at Mr. Pandey's career suggests that he has been a man for all seasons and has enjoyed crucial postings during all governments. "He served at important positions in all governments in the State and his tenures have remained mostly non-controversial," a political insider in Lucknow said. Apart from his wide experience in industries, finance, health, education and development administration, Mr. Pandey is known for his networking in the industrial sector, strategic planning and crisis management, as per the observer.

In his LinkedIn profile, Mr. Pandey describes himself as a "career bureaucrat" with more than three-and-a-half decade experience in the administration at the State as well as in the Union level in various positions. "Strong skill-set to handle complex administrative problems," he writes in his bio, referring to his strengths.

Mega events

Further, he credits himself for successfully piloting schemes and holding mega events such as the farm loan waiver, investors' summit in 2018 in Lucknow, Kumbh Mela in Prayagraj and Pravasi Bharatiya Divas in Varanasi, the Prime Minister's Lok Sabha constituency, in 2019.

Able official

In August 2019, when he retired as the Chief Secretary, Chief Minister Adityanath showered him with accolades calling him an "able and proficient official" who carried out the tasks given to him efficiently. In almost all major policy initiatives of the U.P. government or politically important schemes such as farm loan waiver, Mr. Pandey's imprints could be seen. The political bosses in Delhi, who are very choosy about appointing officials in high-profile positions, apparently saw several plus points in him besides his seeming closeness with the government in Lucknow. Interestingly, under the NDA government, he is another ex-Chief Secretary to be appointed in the poll body.

Earlier, former Gujarat Chief Secretary A.K. Joti was made the Election Commissioner.

Another factor that also swung in his favour is his amiable nature to work with colleagues as well as subordinates which could help him create a sense of balance in the three-member body, which recently saw the two incumbents sparring over the holding and handling of the Assembly polls in Tamil Nadu, West Bengal, Kerala and Puducherry in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic.

As Election Commissioner, Mr. Pandey will see crucial Assembly polls starting with Uttar Pradesh, Punjab, Goa, Uttarakhand and Manipur in early next year and then Gujarat and Himachal Pradesh in the last month of 2022. Subsequently, in 2023, there will be Assembly polls in Karnataka and Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh and Rajasthan. He will demit office in February 2024, just before the next Lok Sabha polls. As per the age criterion guiding the Election Commissioners, the retirement age has been fixed at 65 years.

With his appointment, all the three members of the poll body have a common thread – U.P. Chief Election Commissioner Chandra is a former Indian Revenue Service officer from U.P. and so is Rajiv Kumar, a former Jharkhand cadre official. Mr. Pandey was born in Punjab but was allotted the U.P. cadre after he passed the civil services exam.

TVS Motor Company Limited's Joint Managing Director Sudarshan Venu on Saturday welcomed the revision of FAME II subsidies for electric two-wheelers, and said the move would give a fillip to both increased adoption and technology development.

"Sustainable mobility solutions are very important for the future and TVS is investing significantly behind this," Mr Venu said in a statement.

Industries also capped incentives for electric two-wheelers at 40% of the cost of vehicle, up from 20% earlier.

"The revision in the FAME (II) policy, increasing the subsidy by 50% per kWh, is a phenomenal move," Ather Energy CEO and Co-founder Tarun Mehta said in a statement. "Sales of electric two-wheelers have grown despite the pandemic and with this additional subsidy, we expect electric two-wheeler sales to disrupt the market, and clock 6 million-plus units by 2025," he added.

The government's continued support to drive adoption of EVs, with a keen focus on locally built electric two-wheelers will make India the manufacturing hub of EVs, Mr. Mehta added.

Lower sticker price

Society of Manufacturers of Electric Vehicles (SMEV) Director General Sohinder Gill said, "It's an important and an admirable decision taken by the government, a move that will bring down the prices of electric two-wheelers nearer to the IC (internal combustion engine) vehicles and remove one of the biggest blocks, of the high sticker price of electric two-wheelers." A 'city speed electric scooter' with a range of 100 km/charge will now cost less than ₹60,000 and a high-speed scooter with a range of 80 km will come nearer to the price tag of ₹1 lakh, he added.

"Together with the other important factors like extremely low running cost, low maintenance and zero emission, such price levels will surely spur a substantial demand for electric two-wheelers," Mr. Gill said.

"We believe the time has come for mass adoption of electric two-wheelers and such initiatives coupled with a mass awareness campaign by the government and easy terms financing by public sector banks will bring us closer to the target of 30% of the two-wheeler market becoming electric in five years," the SMEV DG added.

'Second wave impacts luxury home purchases'

'Need for space had spurred demand'

LALATENDU MISHRA

MUMBAI

The second wave appears to have impacted purchases of luxury homes by high net worth and ultra-high net worth individuals, who were seen buying new homes last year to move to safer and sprawling locations.

"Right after the first wave, people wanted to upgrade their homes with larger spaces, more amenities and open areas," said Amit Goyal, CEO, India Sotheby's International Realty. "They made quick decisions. Our average transaction closure time reduced from 4-6 months to less than 90 days," he added.

But during the second wave "demand has quieted," Mr. Goyal said. "We expect demand to return as the country reopens and people are vaccinated."

In Delhi, purchases of luxury properties priced over ₹13-14 crore for high rise apartments, to more than ₹70-80 crore for bungalows were mainly by lawyers, doctors and architects. Industrialists and actors had led the demand in Mumbai.

N. ANAND
While most companies have lost business on account of the pandemic, Roca Bathroom Products has managed to increase its market share at the national level by 1% and is confident of a 25% growth in revenue in 2021. The company is also planning a new greenfield project either in Tamil Nadu or Gujarat by 2024, says MD K.E. Ranganathan. Edited excerpts.

How did you manage to post growth during the pandemic year?

■ We laid greater focus on meeting customer needs and this helped the company to gain market share at the national level by 1% to 35% among the organised sector players. In Tamil Nadu, our market share among organised players is 65% and 45% in the South.

We phased the year 2020 in terms of January-March quarter as high growth, April-June as survival, July-September as revival and October-December as back-to-growth.

How has been the business in 2021?

■ We designed and executed a 'Helicopter' (vertical) take-off during January-March 2021 quarter. We planned higher production, launch of new products, rural market thrust, loyalty programme focus and huge market pull actions. All these resulted in the business doing a 'vertical take-off' in terms of revenue. We recorded a robust revenue growth of more than 30% during January-March 2021.

April 2021 continued the dream run with a record revenue of ₹20 crore for the company against a total washout in April 2020. May 2021 began with the shock of COVID 2.0 hitting the country in a big way, leading to lockdowns across many cities. In spite of this, the company delivered encouraging results compared with May 2020 with 40% growth.

How do you see the rest of the year 2021?

■ As we speak today, COVID 2.0 is losing steam. The case loads across the country have started coming down. I guess from July 2021 we can expect to go back to February/March 2021 conditions. As a company, Roca Parryware, is ready for the second helicopter take-off during June/July 2021.

Tell us about your order book position

■ On the institutional front, we see good traction as many construction sites are allowed to continue work even during lockdown. We have more than 18 months' revenue order book in the institutions segment.

Any expansion plans?

■ Given this momentum and expected surge in demand post-COVID curbs easing, we are taking action to expand our faucets and plastics manufacturing capacities in India. We are planning to set up a new factory either in Gujarat or Tamil Nadu by 2024-25.

Overall, we have planned for ₹50 crore capex investments in 2021 and actions are already under way.

Has the spiralling input material prices affected your revenue?

■ In the last three to four months, all input material costs have gone up by 40-50%. Though, we lost few points on our profitability so far, we have not considered to pass on the inflation to market. But given the worsening situation, it looks inevitable in the near future.

What is the targeted revenue for 2021?

■ We have done pretty well so far from January to May 2021 and assuming the lockdowns get lifted soon, we are confident of recording a 25% growth in revenue over 2020 to about ₹1,600 crore.

Copa America

Now that they're committed, they're favoured to win it.

Argentina still looms as a threat to Brazil's title defence. Being away from home takes some pressure off Lionel Messi and his Argentina team.

The Copa America will kick off Sunday with defending champion Brazil against Venezuela in Brasilia. The final will be on July 10 in Rio de Janeiro.

No spectators will be allowed to attend any Copa America matches because of restrictions in place for the pandemic, which has already delayed the tournament by a year.

With the likes of Neymar on board, coach Tite expects not only to defend the title lifted in 2019, but also use the next 30 days to prepare for the 2022 World Cup in Qatar.

Argentina placed third in the 2019 Copa America, but the team has improved under coach Lionel Scaloni.

Defender Cristian Romero, and midfielders Leandro Paredes and Giovani Lo Celso are now trusted to break the opponents' lines.

Up front, Lautaro Martinez and Sergio Aguero bring the same respect.

And that means Messi, who turns 34 later this month, doesn't need to be part of every play for Argentina to win.

Colombia has improved since the return of coach Reinaldo Rueda. Copa America could further enhance the team, which will not have midfielder James Rodriguez because of fitness problems.

Uruguay has struggled despite counting on Luis Suarez and Edison Cavani. Uruguay hasn't won any of its three latest matches on the road to Qatar.

The tournament will be divided into two groups of five. Group A includes Argentina, Bolivia, Uruguay, Chile and Paraguay.

Brazil is in Group B with Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador and Peru.

The four best of each group advance to the knockout stage.

CHENNAI

These are busy days at the MRF Pace Foundation with several promising pacers emerging from its stable.

A few have played for India, others have been selected in the National team and some have found a place as net bowlers.

MRF Pace Foundation head coach M. Senthilnathan analysed them with The Hindu.

Chetan Sakariya: Liked the look of him. Lean and mean. Saw him first in 2017, had the left-arm's ball shaping away across the right-hander. We worked on his fitness, in bringing the ball into the right-hander and on yorkers and pace variations.

Sandeep Warrier: Strength is new ball and outswing. Deceptively sharp. Consistent with his line and length over long spells. Has good control.

Prasidh Krishna: Has already played for the country. Tall, high-arm action and on yorkers and pace variations. Has good control.

Arzam Nagwaswalla: Tremendous performance in domestic circuit. A sharp, nippy left-arm with good control. He can bring the ball into the right-hander and can surprise him with pace. Has a compelling yorker.

Arshdeep Singh: A tall left-arm bowler with an excellent wide yorker in the end overs. A calm head in stressful situations. Has been working on his slower ball.

Avesh Khan: Sends down a 'heavy' ball. A strong, tall lad with good lift. Can move the ball both ways. Excellent bowler in the slog overs with variations.

Sandeep Warrier:

Strength is new ball and outswing. Deceptively sharp. Consistent with his line and length over long spells. Has good control.

Prasidh Krishna:

Arzam Nagwaswalla:

Tremendous performance in domestic circuit. A sharp, nippy left-arm with good control. He can bring the ball into the right-hander and can surprise him with pace. Has a compelling yorker.

Jeremy: The IWF has also said that the Absolute Ranking cannot be considered final until the relevant anti-doping results management processes are concluded.

Jeremy's ranking will stand him in good stead if the IWF reallocates quota places in the men's 67kg category.

Pragg wins five in a row, shares lead

CHESS

RAKESH RAO

NEW DELHI

Staging a stunning comeback, R. Praggnanandhaa won all five rounds on Friday to share the lead after 10 rounds of the Gelfand Challenge online rapid chess tournament.

Overnight in the tied fifth spot, the 15-year-old seemed to have pushed the reboot button by stunning his second-seeded compatriot Nihal Sarin. He went on to account for Zhu Jiner (China), teammate Leon Mendonca, Vincent Keymer (Germany) and Jonas Buhl Bjerre (Denmark) for a share of the lead with top seeded Uzbek Nodirbek Abdusattarov at eight points.

D. Gukesh also recovered from the first-day blues and the loss in the sixth round, scoring four straight wins. He now shares the third spot with Keymer and first-day leader Awonder Liang, who lost three successive games.

However, Nihal and Mendonca could add only two points each.

The results (involving Indians): 10th round: R. Praggnanandhaa bt Jonas Buhl Bjerre (Den); Sarasadat Khademshahi (Iran) lost to D. Gukesh; Nihal Sarin drew with Polina Shuvanova (Rus); Leon Mendonca drew with Lei Tingjie (Chn).

Ninth round: Praggnanandhaa bt Vincent Keymer (Ger); Gukesh bt Awonder Liang (USA); Bjerre drew with Mendonca; Zhansaya Abdumalik (Kaz) lost to Nihal.

Eighth round: Mendonca lost to Praggnanandhaa; Nuryut Salimova (Bul) lost to Gukesh; Nihal lost to Lei Tingjie.

Seventh round: Praggnanandhaa bt Zhu Jiner (Chn); Gukesh bt Olga Badenoch (Blr); Bjerre drew with Nihal; Mendonca lost to Keymer.

Sixth round: Nihal lost to Praggnanandhaa; Keymer lost to Gukesh; Zhu Jiner lost to Mendonca.

Leading standings (including Indians, after 10 rounds): 1-2. Nodirbek Abdusattarov (Uzb), R. Praggnanandhaa (8 points each); 3-5. Vincent Keymer (Ger), D. Gukesh, Awonder Liang (USA) (7 each). 11. Nihal Sarin (5), 14. Leon Mendonca (4.5).

Mirabai gathered 413, 6172 Robi points to come second behind Chinese Hou Zhihui (4926, 4422) in the rankings published on Friday.

NBA PLAYOFFS

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE LOS ANGELES

Joel Embiid finished with 27 points, nine rebounds and eight assists as Philadelphia 76ers snapped Atlanta Hawks' 13-game winning streak at home with a 127-111 win in game three of their NBA Eastern Conference playoff series. The teams split the first two games in Philadelphia, but the Sixers dominated on Friday to grab a 2-1 series lead.

In Denver, Devin Booker scored 28 points and Chris Paul added 27 and eight assists as Phoenix Suns seized a 3-0 lead over the Nuggets with a 116-102 victory.

Nuggets' Nikola Jokic, who received his MVP award before the game, had 32 points.

The results (semifinals): EC: Philadelphia 76ers 127 bt Atlanta Hawks 111 (Sixers lead series 2-1).

WC: Denver Nuggets 102 lost to Phoenix Suns 116 (Suns lead series 3-0).
